Local Bridge Project Is Ready for Contract Bids

Authority Favoring Early Action on Building Span, at Newburgh

The New York State Bridge Authority will advertise for bids Monday to start construction on the Kingston-Rhinebeck bridge, James F. Loughran, chairman of the N. Y. State Bridge Authority, announced last night at the ninth annual banquet of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce in the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Loughran said "all obstructions and obstacles," had been cleared, and his announcement was greeted with applause of the 340 persons at the dinner at which National Defense Coordinator Arthur S. Flemming was guest of honor.

Legislation Asked

The bridge authority chairman today also disclosed a letter which the authority had authorized to be sent to State Senator Arthur H. Wicks that the authority favors "legislation presented in the Senate by the Hon. Ernest I. Hatfield amending the 1953 bridge law to permit the starting of the proposed Beacon-Newburgh bridge," before completion of the span in the Kingston area.

Loughran's letter to Senator Wicks noted that the Kingston bridge's westerly access road is nearing completion and the approach road on the Rhinebeck side is under contract. It said the authority "is now in a position to give, and is in fact giving, preliminary attention to sites and access roads for the proposed Newburgh-Beacon bridge."

Loughran had announced this week that the bridge will be built in about two and a half years and should be opened in 1956.

Surprise at Dinner

The authority chairman sat at the speaker's table at last night's banquet, and was called upon by N. Jansen Fowler, Chamber of Commerce president, who said he had promised Loughran that he would not have to make a speech, but "might give up a word or two."

Few in the room suspected that the stage was being set for the long-awaited announcement.

Loughran said: "The happiest thought I can give to you is that all obstructions and obstacles have been cleared away.

"Monday of next week we plan on advertising for bids on the contract for construction of the Kingston-Rhinebeck bridge."

Need Stressed

Loughran's letter to Senator Wicks stressed "an urgent need" for the Newburgh-Beacon bridge

Bush Would Have Rhinebeck-Ulster Bridge as Name

The supervisor of the town of Ulster wants the proposed Hudson river bridge in the Kingston area to be known as the "Rhinebeck-Ulster Bridge."

Supervisor Percy Bush, in a letter to James F. Loughran, chairman of the New York State Bridge Authority, pointed out that Loughran had "gone on record" for changing the name of the proposed bridge from Rhinecliff-Kingston Bridge to Rhinebeck-Kingston Bridge.

(Loughran stated Monday that the name Rhinebeck should be used, he felt, because the eastern approach will be north of Rhinecliff but close to the north line of the town of Rhinebeck.)

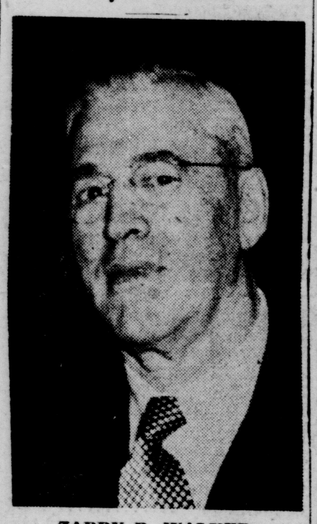

Supervisor Bush wrote: "I hearby request that you go further along the same line and change the name of the proposed bridge to "RHINEBECK-ULSTER BRIDGE" as you well know that the western approach to the bridge is in the township of Ulster, the town in which International Business Machines Corporation decided to locate one of their fine plants.

"I feel that the name of "Rhinebeck-Ulster Bridge" is more appropriate as it would not only recognize the township of Ulster which the bridge was located in but also the county, which is one of the most historical counties of the state of New York."

Former Representative Declares It Reveals Track Influence Peddling

New York, March 9 (AP)—Former Representative Hamilton Fish took the stand as a surprise witness today at the harness track probe and offered a letter which he said was "full of dynamite" concerning "influence peddling" in track operations.

Fish told the Moreland Act Commission investigating state harness track industry that he received the letter five months ago from a "well known man," for whose honesty he would vouch.

He did not immediately identify the author, but asked permission to read the letter.

Commission chairman Bruce Bromley then asked that the commission be allowed to read it before it was made public.

Would Have Oath

Bromley added that "I would rather have the man who wrote the letter testify under oath."

Fish took the stand after the commission recommended that four more state racing associations be allowed to conduct meets this year.

The recommendation was made subject to a series of conditions in the case of three of the associations, however.

The commission recommended that 1954 licenses be issued to:

The Buffalo Trotting Assn., which conducts its meets at a track at Hamburg, near Buffalo, N. Y., owned by the Erie County Agricultural Society.

The Old Country Assn., Inc., and Nassau Trotting Assn., both of which conduct their meets at Roosevelt Raceway, Westbury,

Caracas, Venezuela, March 9 (AP)—The United States gained ground today in the 10th Inter-American Conference with its plan for united action to halt communism in this hemisphere.

Five Latin-American nations—Brazil, the Dominican Republic, Paraguay, Honduras and Nicaragua—threw their support to the new "Dulles Doctrine" in sessions yesterday.

Haiti also called for anti-Red action "not in conflict with the principle of non-intervention."

Show Cause Order Issued To Union in Docks Tie-Up

New York, March 9 (AP)—While an estimated 500 longshoremen marched outside the courthouse, a federal judge today called on three union officials to show why the officials should not be cited for contempt of court in a tie-up paralyzing the port.

The order, signed by Judge David N. Edelstein on petition of the National Labor Relations Board, named three officials of the old International Longshoremen's Assn. It is returnable March 16.

The NLRB contends they ignored a federal restraining order issued last week against picketing of the piers. The board has asked that the union be fined $100,000 if it fails to end the tie-up and an additional $25,000 for each day the tie-up continues.

Officials named in Edelstein's show cause order were Harold Bowers, head of Local 824; William P. Lynch, secretary of Local 791; and William Ackalitis, business agent of Local 871.

Another federal court action was scheduled for today, on the question of making the temporary restraining order permanent, but this was postponed by consent of both sides until March 18.

The temporary restraining order meanwhile remained in effect.

The demonstrators dispersed, heading for nearby subways, buses and taxicabs, after Judge Edelstein issued his "show cause" or-

Program Is Dependent On Report

Official Says Women Needed in Technical Fields to Relieve U. S. Manpower Shortages

Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, U. S. director of defense mobilization, in his talk Monday night at the ninth annual banquet of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce, revealed that consideration of Universal Military Training will be held in abeyance by the administration pending the completion by April 1 of a survey of the nation's needs as to size and composition of its reserve military forces.

Dr. Flemming said the Office of Defense Mobilization submitted a report to the President stating, in effect, that any talk about UMT before first finding out what the ultimate goal of that training should be is like "putting the cart before the horse."

Should Know Needs

Before we set up a training program, we should know what we are training for, Dr. Flemming indicated.

As a result of the recommendation, President Eisenhower called for a survey by April 1 with recommendations as to size and composition of the nation's military reserve, Flemming said. Any recommendations on Universal Military Training will be held in abeyance until that report is received, he said.

Another statement by Dr. Flemming which observers felt was significant concerned the possibilty of encouraging women to enter engineering and technical fields.

Can't Forget Shortages

Stating that it is necessary to "recognize and do something about the manpower shortages before it is too late," Dr. Flemming noted that with a return to peacetime production "the pressure is off and we are inclined to forget about shortages" in such areas as engineering, technical fields and various skilled work.

Dr. Flemming said in his opinion the "only way out" is to encourage more women to enter engineering schools. He admitted, however, that the engineering schools have not generally "put out the welcome mat" for young women."

"I appreciate the fact that these women will marry and have families," and therefore withdraw from the field, "but in the event of an emergency they definitely would be available," the speaker said.

Called for Debate

Washington, March 9 (AP)—One of President Eisenhower's proposals for greater federal aid to states in the field of public health was called up for debate today in the House. The bill would authorize an outlay of 182 million dollars over the next three years in grants for construction of nonprofit diagnostic centers, hospitals for the chronically ill, rehabilitation centers and nursing homes. The bill is an authorization only; Congress would have to appropriate the funds later.

Group at the speakers' table at Monday night's annual banquet of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce held at the Governor Clinton Hotel were, seated, left to right, James F. Loughran, chairman of the New York State Bridge Authority; former Surrogate Judge Harry H. Flemming; U. S. Defense Mobilization Director Arthur S. Flemming; N. Jansen Fowler, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Adrian Kaplan, past president of the chamber. Standing, Albert Kurdt, executive secretary of the chamber; Richard O. Gruver, banquet chairman; the Rev. Dr. William Carner Cain, who gave the invocation; Mayor Fred Stang; Robert Phinney, chairman of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors; Col. Allan L. Hanstein, director, Kingston-Ulster Defense Council; Robert A. MacKinnon, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. (Freeman photo)

War Is Not Inevitable, He Asserts

Spiritual Foundations Necessary to Peace for World, 340 Hear at C. of C. Dinner

This nation must remain strong, and at the same time it must provide the world "with the kind of spiritual leadership that will enable the nations to walk along the pathway that leads to peace," Dr. Arthur Sherwood Flemming, director of defense mobilization, said here Monday night.

Dr. Flemming addressed approximately 340 persons attending the ninth annual banquet of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce in one of the largest dinner meetings ever held at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The speaker stressed the urgency for building a strong nation. "If we deal with Russia from a position of strength, we may deter her from aggression," he said.

Dr. Flemming emphasized, however, that he does not believe war is inevitable. "We must make our contribution to the strengthening of spiritual foundations for the spiritual leadership around which to rally the construction support of the world."

Quotes Eisenhower

He called attention to a statement by President Dwight D. Eisenhower to the effect that mankind must "find the way by which the marvelous inventiveness of man shall not be dedicated to his death but consecrated to his life."

Again drawing from statements made by the President, Dr. Flemming listed as four basic premises to be kept in mind the following:

"1. We are in an age of peril.

"2. There is no reason to believe that Soviet Russia policy has changed from its frequently announced position of destruction of freedom everywhere.

"3. The Soviets now have the capability of attack on the United States, and this capability will increase with the passage of time.

"4. We shall not be aggressors, but we and our allies have and will maintain a massive capability to strike back."

Mobilization Important

Thus it becomes clear, Dr. Flemming said, that this nation must have a mobilization program either to deter aggression or to fight and successfully defend our freedom."

The objectives of this mobilization program are to develop and maintain a strong mobilization base, to stockpile critical goods as rapidly as possible, to recognize and do something about manpower shortages "before it is too late to act," and to develop an effective program for continental defense, the speaker said.

Explaining that the mobilization base is that combination of facilities, production equipment and skilled workers which, with existing stockpiles, will meet "rapidly accelerating" wartime needs, Flemming outlined the work of the Office of Defense Mobilization in surveying the conditions to fill the gaps in the program. Telling of the efforts being made to fill the gaps, the speaker said that the administration is "proceeding on the assumption that most of those gaps can be met by private industry." He reviewed the strides being made by private industry with encouragement from the government in such forms as the rapid tax write-off.

Time Is Important

Throughout his talk, Flemming stressed that, because Russia has the capability of attack upon this country, "time will no longer be on our side."

Speaking of the manpower shortage, Dr. Flemming noted that the administration has information making it clear that Russia is training a great many young men and women in the scientific field. He said one job of the Office of Defense Mobilization is to encourage more youths to go into engineering schools, and that he has concluded that "the only way out" of the present shortage of engineers is for women in this country to enter the engineering field.

Dr. Flemming revealed that, as a result of a recommendation by the ODM, the President has authorized a survey be made as to the desirable size and composition of reserve military forces to be maintained in this country. Action on Universal Military Training will be held in abeyance until it is ascertained what size and

Approval Is Seen For Law Protecting Witnesses' Rights

Code of Fair Procedure Is Recommended by State Committee on Standards

Albany, March 9 (AP)—Legislative approval was predicted today for bills that would protect the rights of witnesses before state investigating bodies and generally ban one-man probes, such as Sen. McCarthy (R.-Wis.) has been conducting.

The measures spell out a code of fair procedure in state inquiries, recommended last night by the special legislative Committee on Ethical Standards and Integrity in Government.

The bulk of the committee's recommendations, which will include codes covering the conduct of legislators, state officials and employes and party officers, will be made tomorrow to Gov. Dewey and the Legislature.

Besides providing that no legislative committee or any other multi-member investigating body shall hold a hearing without at least two members present, the bills to implement the code would:

1.Give a witness the right at any hearing to be accompanied by counsel, who would be permitted to advise him of his rights, "subject to reasonable limitations to prevent obstruction of or interference with the orderly conduct of the hearing."

McCarthy Declares He Still Expects Free Radio and TV Period

Washington, March 9 (AP)—President Eisenhower, it now is known, hand picked Vice President Nixon to fire back the Republican Party's reply to charges by Adlai Stevenson that the GOP is using "slander, dissension and deception' to try to win the coming congressional elections.

But Sen. McCarthy (R.-Wis.), while terming Nixon an "excellent choice" to speak for the party, made it clear last night he still expects NBC and CBS to give him free radio and TV time to reply to what he called a "vicious attack on me personally" by Stevenson, the Democrats' 1952 presidential candidate.

Senate Leaders Will Discuss Fair Procedures at All Probes

Washington, March 9 (AP)—Senate Republican leaders called a meeting today to discuss steps that might be taken to persuade committees to make their investigative procedures fair to everyone.

The question arose in the wake of a public row between Sen. McCarthy (R.-Wis.) and Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens.

A closed meeting of the Senate GOP Policy Committee (12:30 p. m.) followed introduction by Sens. Douglas (D.-Ill.) and Humphrey (D.-Minn.) yesterday of a bill to establish by law "a code of fair play" for congressional investigations.

Douglas said the approach taken by Republican leaders, based on persuasion rather than legislation, amounted only "to a pious hope that committees will reform themselves."

Sen. Ferguson (R.-Mich.), chairman of the policy committee, was due to report to the GOP committee on his survey of existing Senate committee rules and discussion of possible improvements with individual committee chairmen.

McCarthy Declares He Still Expects Free Radio and TV Period

Washington, March 9 (AP)—President Eisenhower, it now is known, hand picked Vice President Nixon to fire back the Republican Party's reply to charges by Adlai Stevenson that the GOP is using "slander, dissension and deception' to try to win the coming congressional elections.

But Sen. McCarthy (R.-Wis.), while terming Nixon an "excellent choice" to speak for the party, made it clear last night he still expects NBC and CBS to give him free radio and TV time to reply to what he called a "vicious attack on me personally" by Stevenson, the Democrats' 1952 presidential candidate.

Delegates No Authority

"I am delegating to no one the authority to defend me," McCarthy told newsmen in New York after he had learned the two big networks had rejected his demand for equal air time but had agreed

War Is Not Inevitable, He Asserts

Spiritual Foundations Necessary to Peace for World, 340 Hear at C. of C. Dinner

This nation must remain strong, and at the same time it must provide the world "with the kind of spiritual leadership that will enable the nations to walk along the pathway that leads to peace," Dr. Arthur Sherwood Flemming, director of defense mobilization, said here Monday night.

Dr. Flemming addressed approximately 340 persons attending the ninth annual banquet of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce in one of the largest dinner meetings ever held at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The speaker stressed the urgency for building a strong nation. "If we deal with Russia from a position of strength, we may deter her from aggression," he said.

Dr. Flemming emphasized, however, that he does not believe war is inevitable. "We must make our contribution to the strengthening of spiritual foundations for the spiritual leadership around which to rally the construction support of the world."

Quotes Eisenhower

He called attention to a statement by President Dwight D. Eisenhower to the effect that mankind must "find the way by which the marvelous inventiveness of man shall not be dedicated to his death but consecrated to his life."

Again drawing from statements made by the President, Dr. Flemming listed as four basic premises to be kept in mind the following:

"1. We are in an age of peril.

"2. There is no reason to believe that Soviet Russia policy has changed from its frequently announced position of destruction of freedom everywhere.

"3. The Soviets now have the capability of attack on the United States, and this capability will increase with the passage of time.

"4. We shall not be aggressors, but we and our allies have and will maintain a massive capability to strike back."

Mobilization Important

Thus it becomes clear, Dr. Flemming said, that this nation must have a mobilization program either to deter aggression or to fight and successfully defend our freedom."

The objectives of this mobilization program are to develop and maintain a strong mobilization base, to stockpile critical goods as rapidly as possible, to recognize and do something about manpower shortages "before it is too late to act," and to develop an effective program for continental defense, the speaker said.

Explaining that the mobilization base is that combination of facilities, production equipment and skilled workers which, with existing stockpiles, will meet "rapidly accelerating" wartime needs, Flemming outlined the work of the Office of Defense Mobilization in surveying the conditions to fill the gaps in the program. Telling of the efforts being made to fill the gaps, the speaker said that the administration is "proceeding on the assumption that most of those gaps can be met by private industry." He reviewed the strides being made by private industry with encouragement from the government in such forms as the rapid tax write-off.

Time Is Important

Throughout his talk, Flemming stressed that, because Russia has the capability of attack upon this country, "time will no longer be on our side."

Speaking of the manpower shortage, Dr. Flemming noted that the administration has information making it clear that Russia is training a great many young men and women in the scientific field. He said one job of the Office of Defense Mobilization is to encourage more youths to go into engineering schools, and that he has concluded that "the only way out" of the present shortage of engineers is for women in this country to enter the engineering field.

Dr. Flemming revealed that, as a result of a recommendation by the ODM, the President has authorized a survey be made as to the desirable size and composition of reserve military forces to be maintained in this country. Action on Universal Military Training will be held in abeyance until it is ascertained what size and

Senate Leaders Will Discuss Fair Procedures at All Probes

Washington, March 9 (AP)—Senate Republican leaders called a meeting today to discuss steps that might be taken to persuade committees to make their investigative procedures fair to everyone.

The question arose in the wake of a public row between Sen. McCarthy (R.-Wis.) and Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens.

A closed meeting of the Senate GOP Policy Committee (12:30 p. m.) followed introduction by Sens. Douglas (D.-Ill.) and Humphrey (D.-Minn.) yesterday of a bill to establish by law "a code of fair play" for congressional investigations.

Douglas said the approach taken by Republican leaders, based on persuasion rather than legislation, amounted only "to a pious hope that committees will reform themselves."

Sen. Ferguson (R.-Mich.), chairman of the policy committee, was due to report to the GOP committee on his survey of existing Senate committee rules and discussion of possible improvements with individual committee chairmen.

Promises Trouble

Los Angeles, March 9 (AP)—A "hammer and tongs" battle is promised James Roosevelt in the race for the Democratic nomination for congressman from california's 26th district. Ned Redding, 48, a community newspaper publisher and announced Democratic candidate, declared yesterday: "The fight he (Roosevelt) has asked for I will give him in a hammer and tongs manner." Roosevelt surprised many political observers by winning the endorsement Sunday of the 26th district Democratic Council. Redding had asked that his name not be considered by the council because he did not consider the group representative. District convention endorsement is a new procedure for the Democrats, who heretofore have waited for the results of the primary election. The primary will be June 8.

Gains in Revenues Are Reported by Central Hudson

Gains of 7 percent in both electric and gas revenues were reported by Ernest R. Acker, President of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., in the utility company's 1953 Annual Report issued today. Total revenues from regular customers for 1953 were $21,378,000 compared to $19,918,000 in 1952.

"The business of the company showed a steady growth during the year," Mr. Acker stated, "reflecting the relatively stable economy of the Central Hudson area, the high level of industrial activity maintained since World War II and the increasing importance of gas and electric services . . ."

The utility company's net income for 1953 was reported as $2,661,124 as compared with $2,334,768 in 1952. The earnings per share of common stock outstanding at the year end were 90.3 cents for the year as compared with 84.8 cents for the previous yera, an increase of 6 percent. The number of shares of common stock outstanding at the year end was 2,259,642 as compared with 2,021,399 shares at the end of 1952, an increase of 12 per cent. 1953 was the fiftieth year in which dividends had been paid consecutively on the common stock of Central Hudson and its principal predecessor companies, Mr. Acker reported.

The electric power generated in the company's steam and hydroelectric plants represented 75 percent of the 1953 output for regular customers as compared with 78 percent in 1952, he said. Mr. Acker noted that the second 70,000 kilowatt unit at Danskammer Point Steam Station is scheduled to begin operation this fall, and "it is expected that in 1955, the first full year of operation of the combined units, the company will produce in its own system 98 percent of its total power requirements."

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 9 (AP)—There was a slight sag today in the stock market.

It didn't go very far—around a point at the outside. At the same time there were a few quite good plus signs.

The market was steady at the opening, narrowly mixed in the forenoon, and slightly lower in early afternoon.

Aircrafts were a feature of the higher side of the list. Boeing gained as much as 2 points at times on the strength of a proposed two-for-one split. Other aircrafts were up fractions.

Railroads were depressed along with chemicals and electrical equipments. Other divisions of the market were steady to mixed.

Southern Pacific, yesterday's second most active issue off 1⅜, started today on a block of 1,000 shares off ⅛, but thereafter it slipped off around a point.

Also lower were Cheseneake & Ohio, Amerada Petroleum, Allied Chemical, General Electric, U. S. Steel, Chrysler, and Radio Corp.

Higher were Gulf Oil, Homestake Mining, American Tobacco, Douglas Aircraft, and United Aircraft.

A wide variety of gains and losses were scattered through the American stock exchange. Trading was lighter than usual.

The bond market was steady. U. S. Government issues in the over the counter market were largely unchanged.

Flanders Assails McCarthy Actions

Washington, March 9 (AP)—Sen. Flanders (R.-Vt.) said in the Senate today that Sen. McCarthy (R.-Wis.) "is doing his best to shatter the Republican party "by intention or through ignorance."

He said McCarthy belongs to a "one-man party, (whose) name is McCarthyism, a title which he has proudly accepted."

McCarthy's search for internal subversion is diverting the nation from external troubles to an "extent dangerous to our future as a nation," Flanders told his colleagues, adding:

"The dangerous attack is from without, not from within. Look out senators, and see what is creeping upon us."

Flanders said the world appears to be arming for "age-long warfare between God and the devil," split into Communist and non-Communists camps and asked:

"In this battle...what is the part of the junior senator from Wisconsin?

"He dons his war-paint. He goes into his war-dance. He emits his war-whoops. He goes forth to battle and proudly returns with the scalp of a pink army dentist."

This was a reference to Dr. Irving Peress, New York dentist given an honorable discharge from the army recently despite his refusal to answer questions on possible Communist links asked him by Sen. McCarthy, chairman of the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee.

Promises Trouble

Los Angeles, March 9 (AP)—A "hammer and tongs" battle is promised James Roosevelt in the race for the Democratic nomination for congressman from California's 26th district. Ned Redding, 48, a community newspaper publisher and announced Democratic candidate, declared yesterday: "The fight he (Roosevelt) has asked for I will give him in a hammer and tongs manner." Roosevelt surprised many political observers by winning the endorsement Sunday of the 26th district Democratic Council. Redding had asked that his name not be considered by the council because he did not consider the group representative. District convention endorsement is a new procedure for the Democrats, who heretofore have waited for the results of the primary election. The primary will be June 8.

Gains in Revenues Are Reported by Central Hudson

Gains of 7 percent in both electric and gas revenues were reported by Ernest R. Acker, President of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., in the utility company's 1953 Annual Report issued today. Total revenues from regular customers for 1953 were $21,378,000 compared to $19,918,000 in 1952.

"The business of the company showed a steady growth during the year," Mr. Acker stated, "reflecting the relatively stable economy of the Central Hudson area, the high level of industrial activity maintained since World War II and the increasing importance of gas and electric services . . ."

The utility company's net income for 1953 was reported as $2,661,124 as compared with $2,334,768 in 1952. The earnings per share of common stock outstanding at the year end were 90.3 cents for the year as compared with 84.8 cents for the previous yera, an increase of 6 percent. The number of shares of common stock outstanding at the year end was 2,259,642 as compared with 2,021,399 shares at the end of 1952, an increase of 12 per cent. 1953 was the fiftieth year in which dividends had been paid consecutively on the common stock of Central Hudson and its principal predecessor companies, Mr. Acker reported.

The electric power generated in the company's steam and hydro-electric plants represented 75 percent of the 1953 output for regular customers as compared with 78 percent in 1952, he said. Mr. Acker noted that the second 70,000 kilowatt unit at Danskammer Point Steam Station is scheduled to begin operation this fall, and "it is expected that in 1955, the first full year of operation of the combined units, the company will produce in its own system 98 percent of its total power requirements."

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 9 (AP)—There was a slight sag today in the stock market.

It didn't go very far—around a point at the outside. At the same time there were a few quite good plus signs.

The market was steady at the opening, narrowly mixed in the forenoon, and slightly lower in early afternoon.

Aircrafts were a feature of the higher side of the list. Boeing gained as much as 2 points at times on the strength of a proposed two-for-one split. Other aircrafts were up fractions.

Railroads were depressed along with chemicals and electrical equipments. Other divisions of the market were steady to mixed.

Southern Pacific, yesterday's second most active issue off 1⅜, started today on a block of 1,000 shares off ⅛, but thereafter it slipped off around a point.

Also lower were Cheseneake & Ohio, Amerada Petroleum, Allied Chemical, General Electric, U. S. Steel, Chrysler, and Radio Corp.

Higher were Gulf Oil, Homestake Mining, American Tobacco, Douglas Aircraft, and United Aircraft.

A wide variety of gains and losses were scattered through the American stock exchange. Trading was lighter than usual.

The bond market was steady. U. S. Government issues in the over the counter market were largely unchanged.

Flanders Assails McCarthy Actions

Washington, March 9 (AP)—Sen. Flanders (R.-Vt.) said in the Senate today that Sen. McCarthy (R.-Wis.) "is doing his best to shatter the Republican party "by intention or through ignorance."

He said McCarthy belongs to a "one-man party, (whose) name is McCarthyism, a title which he has proudly accepted."

McCarthy's search for internal subversion is diverting the nation from external troubles to an "extent dangerous to our future as a nation," Flanders told his colleagues, adding:

"The dangerous attack is from without, not from within. Look out senators, and see what is creeping upon us."

Flanders said the world appears to be arming for "age-long warfare between God and the devil," split into Communist and non-Communists camps and asked:

"In this battle...what is the part of the junior senator from Wisconsin?

"He dons his war-paint. He goes into his war-dance. He emits his war-whoops. He goes forth to battle and proudly returns with the scalp of a pink army dentist."

This was a reference to Dr. Irving Peress, New York dentist given an honorable discharge from the army recently despite his refusal to answer questions on possible Communist links asked him by Sen. McCarthy, chairman of the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee.

In an exchange last month, the allies returned 37 civilians to the Communists. The Reds handed over 19 foreigners, all of them Turks and White Russians.

Chemical Industry Pushes Ahead on Research Basis

New York, March 9 (AP)—The fast growing chemical industry may have to pause this year to digest some of the great bites it has taken since the war.

But it's been a rich and tasty meal—sales up 10 per cent last year, earnings up eight per cent, plant expansion up 1½ billion dollars, spending on research up 10 per cent.

Recent months haven't been that good. du Pont set a record for sales for the entire year, but the final three months of 1953 fell behind the similar 1952 quarter.

Allied Chemical & Dye also reports demand for its products fell off at the end of 1953, reflecting the general business turndown.

As du Pont's president, Crawford H. Greenewalt, explains: "du Pont, in common with the chemical industry, is primarily a supplier to other manufacturers." But while the demand is catching up, du Pont's "research work to improve the quality and extend the uses of existing products is being undertaken continuously."

Leaders of the industry insist that, thanks to research's turning up new consumer products, the long-range trend is still upwards and that job opportunities for chemists and chemical engineers this year will "remain at a rather high level."

Other industry leaders say its huge growth since the war has built its capacity to produce most of the basic chemicals to a level that probably will exceed demand for the next several years, barring any further national emergency. They predict that capital expenditures will begin to taper off by the end of this year, and the period of digestion will be under way.

Only Three Slips

The first 33 chemical companies to report on 1953 earnings show only three that didn't do better than the year before—and their down-slip wasn't large. Combined the 33 had net profit after taxes of $649,851,617, an 8 per cent climb above 1952's net income for the same 33 of $601,198,600.

The Manufacturing Chemists' Assn. estimates that when all companies are heard from, the industry's net profits after taxes will top one billion dollars. It puts profits before taxes at 2½ billion, showing how deeply the excess profits tax cut into boom-ing 1953 business.

The association's president, William C. Foster, calls last year's record expenditure of 1½ billion dollars for plant and equipment "sound and well-advised."

He says this spending, and those in previous postwar years, made the record sales of 20 billion dollars possible. This was almost 10 per cent of all sales of manufactured products in the country.

He conceded a digestive period may be on the way but thinks "the trend is still upward despite any minor adjustment that might take place."

Technical jobs in the chemical industry should be fairly safe this year, if you go by a survey released this week by the American Chemical Society.

Technical jobs in the chemical industry should be fairly safe this year, if you go by a survey released this week by the American Chemical Society.

Blames Pessimists

Dr. B. R. Stanerson, secretary of the society's Committee on Manpower, says that "no one but the most pessimistic predicts recession of such magnitude that technological projects will be curtailed to an extent that will result in the layoff of chemists and chemical engineers in appreciable numbers."

He also thinks that the need for technical men on government sponsored defense projects "will remain reasonably constant for another year."

Private industry plans for spending on chemical plant improvement and for chemistry research are estimated by the National Science Foundation as running around 300 million dollars a year. And it is here that the industry looks for its future growth.

Stagehand Trouble

New York, March 9 (AP)—For the third time this season Richard Wagner's "Tannhaeuser" threatened last night to be Rudolf Bing's Jonah at the Metropolitan Opera House. This time, however, the cause was a quickie strike by stagehands, rather than an ailing tenor or a clash with the conductor. It was just 40 minutes before the scheduled 8 p. m. curtain time that the stagehands started reaching the Met. Normally they would have started setting scenery at 4 p. m. The usually impeccable General Manager Bing appeared in a tweed sport jacket before the curtain went up. He apologized for his dress, noted that the Met had had "a busy day" and added: "We hope to have a complete show, but in case anything or anybody should be missing, I ask for your indulgence." But when the curtain went up, 10 minutes late, everything was in place. The labor crisis flared suddenly yesterday when 80 members of the AFL Theatrical Protective Assn. walked out in a wage dispute.

CIO Drive at GE

Schenectady, March 9 (AP)—Leaders of Local 301, United Electrical Workers Union, independent, today pressed their drive to muster rank and file members in General Electric Co. plants and march them back into the CIO. Shop stewards for the UE's largest local, which bargains for 20,000 workers at the vast GE plant here, circulated petitions endorsing the local officers' decision to seek affiliation with UE's rival, the International Union of Electrical Workers, CIO (CIO-IUE). The petitions, which were started through the plant yesterday, said the local's business agent, Leo Jandreau, had accepted an invitation from CIO-IUE President James B. Carey to bolt the UE and shift to the CIO-IUE.

Cathleen McParlan Inherits

New York, March 9 (Special)—Cathleen McParlan of Route 3, Kingston, inherits about one-fourth of the estate of her late aunt, Miss Mary F. McParlan, according to report filed here Monday by the State Transfer Tax Department. The estate was appraised today by the department at $46,351, gross value, and $43,795, net. The Kingston niece receives one-fourth of the property remaining after distribution of about $8,000 in specific bequests. In addition, she receives personal property of undisclosed value. A number of others also share. Miss McParlan, a resident of New York, died here on December 6, 1951.

Moran's Sentence Plea Might Bring Talk on O'Dwyer

New York, March 9 (AP)—James J. Moran, imprisoned extortionist, has made an unusual personal plea for reduction of his 12½-to-25-year sentence.

His action has raised speculation that he is ready to talk about dirty work by himself and other officials in the administration of former Mayor William O'Dwyer.

Moran, who held the first deputy fire commissioner's post and several other important jobs under O'Dwyer, was sentenced for master-minding a $1,500,000 shakedown on fuel oil burner installers seeking fire department permits.

It was revealed yesterday that the 52-year-old Moran had sent a 77-page handwritten letter to the Court of Appeals, New York state's highest tribunal.

Friday Is Deadline

Moran has until next Friday midnight to implicate others in a move to get his sentence reduced. The time limit was set when he was sentenced in 1952.

The high court last Dec. 3 reaffirmed Moran's conviction.

Moran's new plea was sent to the court from Green Haven Prison, near Beacon, N. Y., although cases of prisoners making personal appeals to the court are not rare, a lawyer usually handles things and has typewritten copies made for the members of the court. In Moran's case, the seven judges were reported to have taken turns reading the plea.

The appeal may be heard by the court Thursday.

Moran did not take the witness stand at his trial here before General Sessions Court Judge John A. Mullen.

Split Sentence

When Mullen sentenced Moran on March 12, 1952, he split up the sentence into three parts on various extortion and conspiracy charges and said he would "reconsider" the longer parts of the sentence if Moran would talk freely to the district attorney before the end of the first two-year sentence. This ends Friday midnight.

The district attorney and his aides had sought in vain to get Moran to tell who got the lion's share of the shakedown which allegedly was at the rate of $500,000 a year for three years.

Moran's lawyer, Joseph L. Delaney, told newsmen yesterday that Moran had not consulted him about the appeal.

O'Dwyer resigned as mayor in 1950 to become U. S. ambassador to Mexico. He now is in private law practice in Mexico City.

REMOVE HOUSING BARRIERS

Two bills pending in the legislature designed to remove racial and religious barriers with respect to housing, general and public, are receiving widespread support.

One measure would create a temporary commission to investigate the nature, causes and effect of discrimination and segregation in housing and to make recommendations to eliminate these conditions. It is labelled the Metcalf-Baker Bill (S. 1. 1463); (A. 1. 1727).

The other bill would give the State Commission Against Discrimination jurisdiction to enforce the Wicks-Austin Law forbidding discrimination in publicly-assisted housing. It is labelled the Metcalf-Baker Bill (S. 1. 1462); (A. 1. 1728).

During the last decade New York State has concerned itself with safeguarding the rights of its minority citizens. A major step forward was the Wicks-Austin Law, unanimously passed in 1950, which established the principle that publicly supported housing must be opened to all without regard to race, creed or national origin.

The current bills would implement the Wicks-Austin Law, which explicitly defines segregation as discrimination and covers specific types of public assistance, including tax exemptions and write-downs of land costs. This has had the effect of covering in Urban Redevelopment Companies projects thereafter built, and all projects to be constructed under the provisions of Title 1 of the National Housing Act of 1949.

New York State has been the pioneer state in enacting anti-discrimination legislation, which has inspired interest and action in other states and cities.

The two bills now in the legislature are popular in most quarters and should have no substantial opposition.

THE JET RACE

The race for supremacy in the commercial jet transport field waxes hot. The British got off to a big head start, but America is pressing to close the gap.

The famous Comet series gave the British their lead. The Comet I has been flying for some time to Africa and South Asia. Its production now has ended and the bigger Comet II is coming off the line. By 1956 there will be a Comet III.

When Pan American World Airways ordered Comet III's, American firms woke up to the fact they were lagging seriously behind in commercial jets. Now several major companies have jets on the drawing boards.

One manufacturer is readying a ship which is expected to outdo the Comet III in range, passenger capacity and speed. Talk of a six-hour crossing of the Atlantic is heard.

But the British are not resting on their laurels. Recently reports have filtered this way that several makers are planning superjets which would match the speed of projected American planes and carry still bigger payloads.

This competition is good and healthful. Not every manufacturer will win out as result of it. But the traveling public seems sure to benefit no matter what happens. The reality of six-hour ocean crossings, with early breakfast in London and late breakfast in New York, is but a few years off.

GOOD RULE FOR TEACHERS

The favorite occupation of many citizens is thinking up new work and new standards of conduct for teachers. These excessive demands have much to do with the alarming shortage of trained people in the profession.

Sometimes, however, these regulators have a good idea. Dr. Andrew H. Holt, vice-president of the University of Tennessee, told a midwest educational meeting that school superintendents should refuse to hire a teacher who fails to vote.

This requirement is reasonable. A recognized teacher's job is instruction in citizenship. He should personally set a good example in one of the most important activities of the citizen. If he fails to vote, he can hardly with good conscience urge this duty upon his class.

How the teacher votes is his business, with which no one should interfere. But certainly he should vote.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

LEGAL ETHICS

In the mutterings against the confusions of an era of rejection of ancient and established forms, various professions turn to a self-examination of their procedures and seek to re-establish by self-legislation ethical codes of conduct which used to be accepted as part of a way of life.

I recently partook of such fare at the Institute on Legal Ethics at the College of Law of the University of Florida at Gainesville, Florida.

The problem presented to the assembled panel was what the layman thought of the legal profession, which is not a sound question to ask because there are all sorts of lawyers and all sorts of laymen. For instance, those lawyers who are most concerned about legal ethics generally practice them behind closed doors, keeping their names and affairs out of newspapers, living happily in an obscurity of their own choosing.

They regard it as unethical for lawyers to advertise directly or indirectly and fear that the lawyer who gets his name and photograph into newspapers is really practicing an indirect form of advertising. They themselves eschew such matters as interviews and comments on great subjects and would never soil their hands by such ugly matters as murders and divorces, although crime and disruption are enormously important in our society.

The public, however, is more interested in the human side of the law. A murder is always fascinating, particularly if the murderer happens to be a woman. The people's instinct in the matter is correct because murders and similar horrors mirror the society in which we live. The duel between Alexander Hamilton and Aaron Burr is a classical example of a murder which makes everlastingly interesting reading. A kidnaping is important to the community not only in which it occurs, but everywhere in the country. Parents would resent a censorship which kept news from them.

Such a nuptial battle as involved Bobo Rockefeller or the James Roosevelts is appealing news to most Americans who are disturbed by a marriage system which only too often is a disguised form of polygamy and polyandry, arranged by lawyers for profit and the participants for their convenience. The public likes big names on the general principle that the proletariat always finds it delightful when the upper classes slip. It may be catering to vulgar tastes to tell the truth about such matters; yet when one thinks about it, it is the participants who are the vulgarians.

The gentlemen among whom I spent this delightful evening on ethics criticized the ethics of those lawyers and even judges who use such occasions as divorces to get all the free advertising they can. A reporter knows how anxious the lawyers are for a little headline or a photograph. A good sign is when the lawyer spells out his name to make sure that it does not appear incorrectly in the public prints. Judges are malefactors in this sense and drop a well-chosen bon mot to get a laugh, in the hope that their pearls of sarcasm, if not wisdom, will find their way to posterity.

The ethical lawyers, who hide their fame beneath a self-imposed obscurity, may look down their noses at these lawyers, always forgetting that the public does not, and that while their fame may be enormous within the profession, most citizens never heard of them. Their influence upon the community, therefore, is hardly noticeable, whereas the others are regarded as "The Legal Profession" because they are known.

If the ethical lawyers want it to be otherwise, they have to go among the people, but then they would have to explain the enormous cost of any brush with the law, the great delays in the courts which not only add to costs but often create such confusion that the citizen for several years does not know where he stands and has to live with a legal cloud over his head.

They would have a hard time making the layman understand why the barnacles on the rules of evidence make a trial, which ought to take a few hours, last days on end while the lawyers maneuver over what is and what is not admissible. Most of it sounds silly. The lawyers can do much to clean all this up, but they cannot do it by censorship, suppression, or by advising the citizens, rather than lawyers, about ethics.

COMPLETE REST FOR LUNG

I have written before of making a social visit to a young lightweight boxer at a sanatorium where he had been confined with tuberculosis for two years. As I sat by his bedside a new patient was admitted whom I recognized as a local heavyweight boxer. As I looked at him with surprise, he said, in a matter-of-fact tone, that he had come to the sanatorium to spend two years. The physicians had advised him that it would take at least two years of rest to heal his lungs. With a firm voice he said he was going to stay the two years as it meant saving his life.

That was several years ago and, despite the discouraging experience of some t. b. patients, the period of rest required to heal tuberculous lungs is not as long today as formerly. There was time when our lung specialists were of the opinion that everybody, during some time in their lives, had tuberculosis, many of whom by rest, good care and good food were able to overcome this so often fatal disease. However, by the new methods of treatment now available, many lives are saved and in some tuberculosis hospitals there are no waiting lists.

In Therapeutic Notes we read that it is estimated that lving tuberculosis organisms are present in approximately one-half the population, but that man's high resistance, due to immunity developed early in life, prevents active disease unless malnutrition or other illness or stress provides the circumstances for reinfection.

"It has been said that clinical tuberculosis is always the result of gross defects in social organization and the management of individual life." Now with the advent of streptomycin in preventing active growth of the tuberculosis organism, a new era in treatment has become popular throughout the world.

"Recently developed drugs, used alone or in combination with streptomycin, have made possible great strides in the treatment and management of this stubborn disease because of the need of long treatment and the fact that some strains of tuberculosis gradually overcome the resistance to the organisms." Tuberculosis in the adult is usually the result of secondary or superinfection and this fresh infection overwhelms the individual's immunity. This secondary infection becomes caseous and when it breaks down there is cavity formation in the lungs. Fever, chilliness, sweating, weakness, fatigue, loss of weight, pallor, digestive disturbances, shortness of breath, cough expectoration, vomiting of blood, hoarseness, any of these singly or in combination may occur before tuberculosis in finally diagnosed.

Treatment consists of strengthening the patient's resistance and bed rest, as before, is the best treatment. An individual resting in bed breathes about one-third less volume of air than one who is standing and less than half as much as one who is walking. Bed rest gives the whole body an opportunity to strengthen its powers of resistance against the disease. In a future article we will discuss methods of resting the lung by sugery.

"Remember Now, Uncle, No Munich Prices, Please!"

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — In spite of all the bright-and-smiling, early-spring-sunshine optimism that pervades the office of Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, doing something about the U. S. farm situation in Washington seems to get more complicated every day.

Sen. George D. Aiken of Vermont, chairman of the Senate agriculture committee, is scheduled to introduce legislation to carry out the Eisenhower administration's new farm program any day now. But it faces an uncertain future. There is so little support for the administration program in the House that it cannot be introduced there.

Rep. Clifford Hope of Kansas, chairman of the House agriculture committee, has his own plan to let farmers decide what kind of a farm program they want by national referendum. He would then put into law the two most acceptable programs for each commodity.

To top this, the Congressional Joint Committee on the Economic Report has thrown more cold water on the administration's program. "We are doubtful whether any program which seeks to bring about a balance between agricultural production and consumption . . . through the contraction of acreage can, in the long run, be successful," says this committee.

Need Production Controls

Price supports without production controls having been proved completely unworkable in the potato program, a removal of acreage limitations on price-supported crops would obviously throw the farm economy into dizzy overproduction. And it would cost the government billions of dollars. Yet these are the recommendations of supposedly responsible congressmen after solemn deliberations.

Meantime, under the existing price-support programs, the surpluses continue to pile up. Cotton stocks are now estimated at $90 million, dairy surpluses at $382 million, vegetable oils at $235 million, naval stores at $25 million, wool at $62 million, grains at $1.91 billion. The grand total is over $2.7 billion.

The No. 1 riddle in Washington is how to get rid of 'em.

Under the Eisenhower program, a part of the surplus would be put in a strategic reserve. But the rest of it would have to be sacrificed. And here Secretary Benson comes right out and says it will have to be disposed of at a loss. This loss will easily run to the hundred-million-dollar figure. It might even reach the billion mark.

Take the dairy surplus as an example. It is now held in the form of butter, cheese and dried milk. Department of Agriculture has been working on a surplus disposal plan for some time, but isn't quite ready to announce it.

Among the proposals under consideration are greater sales to foreign countries at world market prices. These are well below U. S. prices. So any such sales would have to be matched by corresponding sales to American consumers at the same price to keep them happy.

Seeking Customers

Nevertheless, Secretary Benson now says he is ready to recommend that the decision not to sell behind the Iron Curtain be reconsidered. He would sell U. S. surpluses for dollars or barter them for strategic materials needed by the U. S.

There is increasing pressure to move more of the surpluses into school lunch and relief programs. Sen. Lister Hill of Alabama has introduced a bill to dispose of surpluses to the unemployed.

Other ideas include one plan to use the dried milk as poultry food. Selling the surplus cheese abroad at world prices is risky business because it would upset foreign markets of countries such as The Netherlands, which have a big export business in cheese. As if this weren't headache enough, dairy state congressmen, headed by Senators Edward J. Thye (R), Hubert H. Humphrey (D) and Rep. August H. Andresen, all of Minnesota, have introduced a bill to prevent the secretary of agriculture from reducing the dairy products support-price level from 90 to 75 per cent of parity The idea is to limit the change to 5 per cent a year.

While Secretary Benson says he is opposed to the Thye-Humphrey proposal, he is ready to recommend that the dairy products support-price level be increased above 75 per cent, if this step is necessary to increase production for an adequate U. S. supply.

But the big question now is whether President Eisenhower will veto a bill to continue all support prices at 90 per cent of parity, if Congress passes it against his recommendation.

Democrats Seen Seeking Victory by Action to Split GOP on Communist Issue

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 8 — Adlai Stevenson and the Democratic politicians are pursuing what they believe to be a clever strategy of "divide and conquer." It's a plan to split the Republican party on the anti-Communist issue and perhaps even force the formation of a third party, as in 1912, so that the Democrats can win easily in 1956.

Unfortunately, some Republicans on the Eastern seaboard who have oversimplified the McCarthy controversy, as involving merely a contest between President Eisenhower and the Wisconsin Senator, are falling for this strategy and are unwittingly alienating a large Republican vote which having nowhere else to go, can be forced into a third party.

For the anti-Communist issue will not disappear if Mr. Eisenhower listens to those who want him to have a knockdown, drag-out fight with the Wisconsin Senator and, as it is usually phrased, "assert his leadership."

The practical side is that there are many millions of voters in America who think that the Truman administration, as well as the Roosevelt administration, covered up the facts about the Communist in government and did not take the necessary measures to ferret them out.

All the suggestions for dealing with the Wisconsin senator which are being advanced by the anti-McCarthy wing of the Republican party, aided and abetted by the Democratic strategists, will not erase the simple fact that every public-opinion poll taken since the McCarthy crusade began in 1950 has revealed a substantial segment of the Republican party in agreement with him. The popularity curve on Sen. McCarthy was recorded as of Feb. 1, 1954, by the Gallup polling organization as having gone from 36 per cent to 50 per cent of the voters canvassed in both parties. Even if this fluctuates, it is something in politics to realize that a man's following is so considerable. It is not one senator but about 15,000,000 Republicans and a lot of former Democrats who voted Republican on this issue in 1952 who can be driven away from the party.

The odd part of it is that the tactics of the anti-McCarthyites are strengthening rather than weakening that following. This is because the anti-McCarthy spokesmen never come to grips with the fundamental issue. They spend most of their time and emphasis denouncing the "methods" of the Wisconsin senator and trying to make McCarthy, the man, their sole target. They overlook the fact that there is only one way to dissolve the McCarthy crusade and turn the Wisconsin senator toward other pursuits—and that's for the administration itself to do a convincing anti-Communist job.

The anti-McCarthy spokesmen talk much about the brow-beating of a general in a committee session—as if vigorous cross-examination of witnesses were novel—but they say very little about the indifference of a former President of the United States to the Harry Dexter White case of espionage set before him by the Federal Bureau of Investigation. They have conveniently forgotten that Mr. Truman sent White two letters of commendation long after the FBI gave him the facts about the espionage. To this day many "left wingers" talk of Alger Hiss as possibly innocent, and they ignore the evidence that has accumulated showing how another former President of the United States, Franklin D. Roosevelt, refused to pay any attention as early as 1939 to the facts about Hiss brought to him by Assistant Secretary of State Berle. Millions of people really believe that for twenty years the Democratic administrations harbored treason in their ranks.

The Eisenhower administration started out to do a convincing job on the anti-Communist issue when Attorney General Brownell last autumn revealed some sensational facts about the cover-up by the preceding Administration. But some persons who advise the President promptly persuaded Mr. Eisenhower to pull the rug from under his Attorney General. This development wasn't lost on many millions of Republicans, some of whom in 1952 flocked to the Taft banner only because they felt the general was too closely allied with the Truman administration and would never allow its wrongdoing to be fully exposed.

Mr. Eisenhower can fall for the idea that, by a public fight with McCarthy or his committee, he will enhance his prestige, but practical politicians in his own circle will tell him that such a step would be fatal. If McCarthy departed from the scene tomorrow, some one else would arise in Congress to take up where he left off. For the issue is not one Senator but the coddling and nurturing and harboring of traitors inside the government, and no amount of talk about "witch hunts" and "hysteria" will convince many millions of Republicans that the whole trouble centers in a rough-and-tumble fighting Senator from a Mid-Western state. The followers of Sen. McCarthy believe in fighting fire with fire, and they are not too concerned if the "methods" of the district attorney in trying to get the facts are not always gentle or polite.

There is only one way to render Sen. McCarthy superfluous—and that's to convince the many millions of Republicans and former Democrats who have been impressed by the McCarthy crusade that Communism as a philosophy and Communism as a conspiracy have been completely exterminated from the policy-making offices of the government of the United States, along with the dupes who have consistenly pooh-poohed the Communist menace as a "red herring."

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, March 2—Spencer Miller, Jr., "assistant secretary of labor for international affairs," has been fired because he protested against the "radical background" of labor attaches and other useless and pestiferous parasites of the overseas civilian bureaucracy. His successor is Ernest Wilkins, of Chicago, a Negro and an attorney, who has a son employed in the Department of Justice. Although most workers for the abatement of racial discrimination deplore concessions to raciality, Mr. Wilkins, himself, said his appointment was an honor to his race. He also said he believed that the fact of his being a Negro would help in his work for the government abroad.

The job which thus has changed hands is that of a socialist functionary in a system which exists in our foreign service unknown to most of the American people. Wilkins will be the American representative in the International Labor Organization, an old institution of international socialism with headquarters in Geneva. Of late it has been connected with the United Nations, too Although he is described as a Republican, an ambiguous term nowadays (even Eisenhower is a "Republican"), the very nature of the ILO job compels the occupant to work for Marxian socialism in many countries, always at the financial expense of the American people and the consistent attrition of their political heritage.

The system of so-called attaches and countless lesser barnacles in foreign countries was exposed in these articles under European datelines two years ago. At that time I discovered a secret, ominous organization operating under mysterious auspices called the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions.

The Reader's Digest, in an ill-advised hour of, at best, credulity, had published an inane laudation of one Irving Brown, a political agent of Dave Dubinsky's enormously rich union of American Garment Workers. This political force has a treasury of $160,000,000 and freely taps that till for money to promote politics in foreign lands, mainly western and southern Europe. Brown has been given a counterfeit buildup in the American magazine press as a dashing veteran of the barricades in a dangerous war against the westward press of Soviet communism. Actually he is sedentary and retiring. He is a Communist himself, however, with the proviso that he is a political rival of the Kremlin's Communist aspirations.

Notwithstanding all this, Eisen- however has publicly acknowledged Brown as an agent of the American government in Europe where his function is to meddle in the domestic politics of friendly nations. If Ike dared to put his arm around the same group of Communists in the domestic affairs of our own country he would cause a political explosion and the Republican party would have to disown him and start over.

As I have reported before, Jay Lovestone, a mysterious political schemer employed within Dubinsky's union in New York, is the political genius and boss of this weird experiment which Ike willingly inherited from Truman. Lovestone is an avowed Communist committed to bloody revolution in the streets of American cities.

Spencer Miller, in resigning from the post of assistant secretary of labor "for international affairs," has told the FBI in a long report that "all labor attaches and advisors" appointed by the United States for service abroad in this sinister system, require Lovestone's approval for confirmation.

Kent Hunter, a Washington reporter of long experience and good reputation and a veteran colonel of General Patton's staff in the second war, reports that Miller made a statement to the FBI so long that he was two days dictating it. The statement was based on Miller's personal diaries and contained charges in detail. The jurisdiction of the FBI is questionable because in all overseas matters the authority to carry on various forms of counter-espionage is vaguely assigned to a weird thing called the Central Intelligence Agency. This agency has actually given substantial amounts of the taxpayers' money to Dubinsky's system for this strange activity abroad.

The CIA is utterly mysterious and holds itself above the right of Congress to investigate. However, certain senators have been investigating it and the more they learn of its secrecy and the size of its staff the greater their

There is a paradox in the fact that although one CIA agent said the CIA had spent $3,000,000 promoting the Dubinsky-CIA program abroad, another one, and this one in a high position, said Dubinsky once fetched to France $50,000 in American currency taken from the garment workers' treasury to pay for unspecified political action.

The CIA is not as mysterious as it tries to be, however, and one professional government investigator, who pulled off a number of anti-Communist coups in the war, estimates that it has 22,000 agents and employes. He said a competent professional staff of 2,000 could do more work better. There are rumors, necessarily incapable of verification with all this cloud of mystery, that the CIA draws no line against homosexuals. One identified agent was arrested in Washington on a charge of soliciting a homosexual crime. A senatorial investigator recently stated flatly that another CIA power, high in the bureaucracy, had been dismissed from a civilian position in a

Two bills pending in the legislature designed to remove racial and religious barriers with respect to housing, general and public, are receiving widespread support.

One measure would create a temporary commission to investigate the nature, causes and effect of discrimination and segregation in housing and to make recommendations to eliminate these conditions. It is labelled the Metcalf-Baker Bill (S. 1. 1463); (A. 1. 1727).

The other bill would give the State Commission Against Discrimination jurisdiction to enforce the Wicks-Austin Law forbidding discrimination in publicly-assisted housing. It is labelled the Metcalf-Baker Bill (S. 1. 1462); (A. 1. 1728).

During the last decade New York State has concerned itself with safeguarding the rights of its minority citizens. A major step forward was the Wicks-Austin Law, unanimously passed in 1950, which established the principle that publicly supported housing must be opened to all without regard to race, creed or national origin.

The current bills would implement the Wicks-Austin Law, which explicitly defines segregation as discrimination and covers specific types of public assistance, including tax exemptions and write-downs of land costs. This has had the effect of covering in Urban Redevelopment Companies projects thereafter built, and all projects to be constructed under the provisions of Title 1 of the National Housing Act of 1949.

New York State has been the pioneer state in enacting anti-discrimination legislation, which has inspired interest and action in other states and cities.

The two bills now in the legislature are popular in most quarters and should have no substantial opposition.

THE JET RACE

The race for supremacy in the commercial jet transport field waxes hot. The British got off to a big head start, but America is pressing to close the gap.

The famous Comet series gave the British their lead. The Comet I has been flying for some time to Africa and South Asia. Its production now has ended and the bigger Comet II is coming off the line. By 1956 there will be a Comet III.

When Pan American World Airways ordered Comet III's, American firms woke up to the fact they were lagging seriously behind in commercial jets. Now several major companies have jets on the drawing boards.

One manufacturer is readying a ship which is expected to outdo the Comet III in range, passenger capacity and speed. Talk of a six-hour crossing of the Atlantic is heard.

But the British are not resting on their laurels. Recently reports have filtered this way that several makers are planning super-jets which would match the speed of projected American planes and carry still bigger payloads.

This competition is good and healthful. Not every manufacturer will win out as result of it. But the traveling public seems sure to benefit no matter what happens. The reality of six-hour ocean crossings, with early breakfast in London and late breakfast in New York, is but a few years off.

GOOD RULE FOR TEACHERS

The favorite occupation of many citizens is thinking up new work and new standards of conduct for teachers. These excessive demands have much to do with the alarming shortage of trained people in the profession.

Sometimes, however, these regulators have a good idea. Dr. Andrew H. Holt, vice-president of the University of Tennessee, told a midwest educational meeting that school superintendents should refuse to hire a teacher who fails to vote.

This requirement is reasonable. A recognized teacher's job is instruction in citizenship. He should personally set a good example in one of the most important activities of the citizen. If he fails to vote, he can hardly with good conscience urge this duty upon his class.

How the teacher votes is his business, with which no one should interfere. But certainly he should vote.

LEGAL ETHICS

In the mutterings against the confusions of an era of rejection of ancient and established forms, various professions turn to a self-examination of their procedures and seek to re-establish by self-legislation ethical codes of conduct which used to be accepted as part of a way of life.

I recently partook of such fare at the Institute on Legal Ethics at the College of Law of the University of Florida at Gainesville, Florida.

The problem presented to the assembled panel was what the layman thought of the legal profession, which is not a sound question to ask because there are all sorts of lawyers and all sorts of laymen. For instance, those lawyers who are most concerned about legal ethics generally practice them behind closed doors, keeping their names and affairs out of newspapers, living happily in an obscurity of their own choosing.

They regard it as unethical for lawyers to advertise directly or indirectly and fear that the lawyer who gets his name and photograph into newspapers is really practicing an indirect form of advertising. They themselves eschew such matters as interviews and comments on great subjects and would never soil their hands by such ugly matters as murders and divorces, although crime and disruption are enormously important in our society.

The public, however, is more interested in the human side of the law. A murder is always fascinating, particularly if the murderer happens to be a woman. The people's instinct in the matter is correct because murders and similar horrors mirror the society in which we live. The duel between Alexander Hamilton and Aaron Burr is a classical example of a murder which makes everlastingly interesting reading. A kidnaping is important to the community not only in which it occurs, but everywhere in the country. Parents would resent a censorship which kept news from them.

Such a nuptial battle as involved Bobo Rockefeller or the James Roosevelts is appealing news to most Americans who are disturbed by a marriage system which only too often is a disguised form of polygamy and polyandry, arranged by lawyers for profit and the participants for their convenience. The public likes big names on the general principle that the proletariat always finds it delightful when the upper classes slip. It may be catering to vulgar tastes to tell the truth about such matters; yet when one thinks about it, it is the participants who are the vulgarians.

The gentlemen among whom I spent this delightful evening on ethics criticized the ethics of those lawyers and even judges who use such occasions as divorces to get all the free advertising they can. A reporter knows how anxious the lawyers are for a little headline or a photograph. A good sign is when the lawyer spells out his name to make sure that it does not appear incorrectly in the public prints. Judges are malefactors in this sense and drop a well-chosen bon mot to get a laugh, in the hope that their pearls of sarcasm, if not wisdom, will find their way to posterity.

The ethical lawyers, who hide their fame beneath a self-imposed obscurity, may look down their noses at these lawyers, always forgetting that the public does not, and that while their fame may be enormous within the profession, most citizens never heard of them. Their influence upon the community, therefore, is hardly noticeable, whereas the others are regarded as "The Legal Profession" because they are known.

If the ethical lawyers want it to be otherwise, they have to go among the people, but then they would have to explain the enormous cost of any brush with the law, the great delays in the courts which not only add to costs but often create such confusion that the citizen for several years does not know where he stands and has to live with a legal cloud over his head.

They would have a hard time making the layman understand why the barnacles on the rules of evidence make a trial, which ought to take a few hours, last days on end while the lawyers maneuver over what is and what is not admissible. Most of it sounds silly. The lawyers can do much to clean all this up, but they cannot do it by censorship, suppression, or by advising the citizens, rather than lawyers, about ethics.

And it would cost the government billions of dollars. Yet these are the recommendations of supposedly responsible congressmen after solemn deliberations.

Meantime, under the existing price-support programs, the surpluses continue to pile up. Cotton stocks are now estimated at $90 million, dairy surpluses at $382 million, vegetable oils at $235 million, naval stores at $25 million, wool at $62 million, grains at $1.91 billion. The grand total is over $2.7 billion.

The No. 1 riddle in Washington is how to get rid of 'em.

Under the Eisenhower program, a part of the surplus would be put in a strategic reserve. But the rest of it would have to be sacrificed. And here Secretary Benson comes right out and says it will have to be disposed of at a loss. This loss will easily run to the hundred-million-dollar figure. It might even reach the billion mark.

Take the dairy surplus as an example. It is now held in the form of butter, cheese and dried milk. Department of Agriculture has been working on a surplus disposal plan for some time, but isn't quite ready to announce it.

Among the proposals under consideration are greater sales to foreign countries at world market prices. These are well below U. S. prices. So any such sales would have to be matched by corresponding sales to American consumers at the same price to keep them happy.

Seeking Customers

Nevertheless, Secretary Benson now says he is ready to recommend that the decision not to sell behind the Iron Curtain be reconsidered. He would sell U. S. surpluses for dollars or barter them for strategic materials needed by the U. S.

There is increasing pressure to move more of the surpluses into school lunch and relief programs. Sen. Lister Hill of Alabama has introduced a bill to dispose of surpluses to the unemployed.

Other ideas include one plan to use the dried milk as poultry food. Selling the surplus cheese abroad at world prices is risky business because it would upset foreign markets of countries such as The Netherlands, which have a big export business in cheese. As if this weren't headache enough, dairy state congressmen, headed by Senators Edward J. Thye (R), Hubert H. Humphrey (D) and Rep. August H. Andresen, all of Minnesota, have introduced a bill to prevent the secretary of agriculture from reducing the dairy products support-price level from 90 to 75 per cent of parity The idea is to limit the change to 5 per cent a year.

While Secretary Benson says he is opposed to the Thye-Humphrey proposal, he is ready to recommend that the dairy products support-price level be increased above 75 per cent, if this step is necessary to increase production for an adequate U. S. supply.

But the big question now is whether President Eisenhower will veto a bill to continue all support prices at 90 per cent of parity, if Congress passes it against his recommendation.

Democrats Seen Seeking Victory by Action to Split GOP on Communist Issue

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 8 — Adlai Stevenson and the Democratic politicians are pursuing what they believe to be a clever strategy of "divide and conquer." It's a plan to split the Republican party on the anti-Communist issue and perhaps even force the formation of a third party, as in 1912, so that the Democrats can win easily in 1956.

Unfortunately, some Republicans on the Eastern seaboard who have oversimplified the McCarthy controversy, as involving merely a contest between President Eisenhower and the Wisconsin Senator, are falling for this strategy and are unwittingly alienating a large Republican vote which having nowhere else to go, can be forced into a third party.

For the anti-Communist issue will not disappear if Mr. Eisenhower listens to those who want him to have a knockdown, drag-out fight with the Wisconsin Senator and, as it is usually phrased, "assert his leadership."

The practical side is that there are many millions of voters in America who think that the Truman administration, as well as the Roosevelt administration, covered up the facts about the Communist in government and did not take the necessary measures to ferret them out.

All the suggestions for dealing with the Wisconsin senator which are being advanced by the anti-McCarthy wing of the Republican party, aided and abetted by the Democratic strategists, will not erase the simple fact that every public-opinion poll taken since the McCarthy crusade began in 1950 has revealed a substantial segment of the Republican party in agreement with him. The popularity curve on Sen. McCarthy was recorded as of Feb. 1, 1954, by the Gallup polling organization as having gone from 36 per cent to 50 per cent of the voters canvassed in both parties. Even if this fluctuates, it is something in politics to realize that a man's following is so considerable. It is not one senator but about 15,000,000 Republicans and a lot of former Democrats who voted Republican on this issue in 1952 who can be driven away from the party.

The odd part of it is that the tactics of the anti-McCarthyites are strengthening rather than weakening that following. This is because the anti-McCarthy spokesmen never come to grips with the fundamental issue. They spend most of their time and emphasis denouncing the "methods" of the Wisconsin senator and trying to make McCarthy, the man, their sole target. They overlook the fact that there is only one way to dissolve the McCarthy crusade and turn the Wisconsin senator toward other pursuits—and that's for the administration itself to do a convincing anti-Communist job.

The anti-McCarthy spokesmen talk much about the brow-beating of a general in a committee session—as if vigorous cross-examination of witnesses were novel—but they say very little about the indifference of a former President of the United States to the Harry Dexter White case of espionage set before him by the Federal Bureau of Investigation. They have conveniently forgotten that Mr. Truman sent White two letters of commendation long after the FBI gave him the facts about the espionage. To this day many "left wingers" talk of Alger Hiss as possibly innocent, and they ignore the evidence that has accumulated showing how another former President of the United States, Franklin D. Roosevelt, refused to pay any attention as early as 1939 to the facts about Hiss brought to him by Assistant Secretary of State Berle. Millions of people really believe that for twenty years the Democratic administrations harbored treason in their ranks.

The Eisenhower administration started out to do a convincing job on the anti-Communist issue when Attorney General Brownell last autumn revealed some sensational facts about the cover-up by the preceding Administration. But some persons who advise the President promptly persuaded Mr. Eisenhower to pull the rug from under his Attorney General. This development wasn't lost on many millions of Republicans, some of whom in 1952 flocked to the Taft banner only because they felt the general was too closely allied with the Truman administration and would never allow its wrongdoing to be fully exposed.

Mr. Eisenhower can fall for the idea that, by a public fight with McCarthy or his committee, he will enhance his prestige, but practical politicians in his own circle will tell him that such a step would be fatal. If McCarthy departed from the scene tomorrow, some one else would arise in Congress to take up where he left off. For the issue is not one Senator but the coddling and nurturing and harboring of traitors inside the government, and no amount of talk about "witch hunts" and "hysteria" will convince many millions of Republicans that the whole trouble centers in a rough-and-tumble fighting Senator from a Mid-Western state. The followers of Sen. McCarthy believe in fighting fire with fire, and they are not too concerned if the "methods" of the district attorney in trying to get the facts are not always gentle or polite.

There is only one way to render Sen. McCarthy superfluous—and that's to convince the many millions of Republicans and former Democrats who have been impressed by the McCarthy crusade that Communism as a philosophy and Communism as a conspiracy have been completely exterminated from the policy-making offices of the government of the United States, along with the dupes who have consistenly pooh-poohed the Communist menace as a "red herring."

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, March 2—Spencer Miller, Jr., "assistant secretary of labor for international affairs," has been fired because he protested against the "radical background" of labor attaches and other useless and pestiferous parasites of the overseas civilian bureaucracy. His successor is Ernest Wilkins, of Chicago, a Negro and an attorney, who has a son employed in the Department of Justice. Although most workers for the abatement of racial discrimination deplore concessions to raciality, Mr. Wilkins, himself, said his appointment was an honor to his race. He also said he believed that the fact of his being a Negro would help in his work for the government abroad.

The job which thus has changed hands is that of a socialist functionary in a system which exists in our foreign service unknown to most of the American people. Wilkins will be the American representative in the International Labor Organization, an old institution of international socialism with headquarters in Geneva. Of late it has been connected with the United Nations, too Although he is described as a Republican, an ambiguous term nowadays (even Eisenhower is a "Republican"), the very nature of the ILO job compels the occupant to work for Marxian socialism in many countries, always at the financial expense of the American people and the consistent attrition of their political heritage.

The system of so-called attaches and countless lesser barnacles in foreign countries was exposed in these articles under European datelines two years ago. At that time I discovered a secret, ominous organization operating under mysterious auspices called the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions.

The Reader's Digest, in an ill-advised hour of, at best, credulity, had published an inane laudation of one Irving Brown, a political agent of Dave Dubinsky's enormously rich union of American Garment Workers. This political force has a treasury of $160,000,000 and freely taps that till for money to promote politics in foreign lands, mainly western and southern Europe. Brown has been given a counterfeit buildup in the American magazine press as a dashing veteran of the barricades in a dangerous war against the westward press of Soviet communism. Actually he is sedentary and retiring. He is a Communist himself, however, with the proviso that he is a political rival of the Kremlin's Communist aspirations.

Notwithstanding all this, Eisenhower has publicly acknowledged Brown as an agent of the American government in Europe where his function is to meddle in the domestic politics of friendly nations. If Ike dared to put his arm around the same group of Communists in the domestic affairs of our own country he would cause a political explosion and the Republican party would have to disown him and start over.

As I have reported before, Jay Lovestone, a mysterious political schemer employed within Dubinsky's union in New York, is the political genius and boss of this weird experiment which Ike willingly inherited from Truman. Lovestone is an avowed Communist committed to bloody revolution in the streets of American cities.

Spencer Miller, in resigning from the post of assistant secretary of labor "for international affairs," has told the FBI in a long report that "all labor attaches and advisors" appointed by the United States for service abroad in this sinister system, require Lovestone's approval for confirmation.

Kent Hunter, a Washington reporter of long experience and good reputation and a veteran colonel of General Patton's staff in the second war, reports that Miller made a statement to the FBI so long that he was two days dictating it. The statement was based on Miller's personal diaries and contained charges in detail. The jurisdiction of the FBI is questionable because in all overseas matters the authority to carry on various forms of counter-espionage is vaguely assigned to a weird thing called the Central Intelligence Agency. This agency has actually given substantial amounts of the taxpayers' money to Dubinsky's system for this strange activity abroad.

The CIA is utterly mysterious and holds itself above the right of Congress to investigate. However, certain senators have been investigating it and the more they learn of its secrecy and the size of its staff the greater their

There is a paradox in the fact that although one CIA agent said the CIA had spent $3,000,000 promoting the Dubinsky-CIA program abroad, another one, and this one in a high position, said Dubinsky once fetched to France $50,000 in American currency taken from the garment workers' treasury to pay for unspecified political action.

The CIA is not as mysterious as it tries to be, however, and one professional government investigator, who pulled off a number of anti-Communist coups in the war, estimates that it has 22,000 agents and employes. He said a competent professional staff of 2,000 could do more work better. There are rumors, necessarily incapable of verification with all this cloud of mystery, that the CIA draws no line against homosexuals. One identified agent was arrested in Washington on a charge of soliciting a homosexual crime. A senatorial investigator recently stated flatly that another CIA power, high in the bureaucracy, had been dismissed from a civilian position in a

Three Actions Are Tried in Court

Three actions growing out of an automobile accident at West Park on September 4, 1950, were taken up for trial in Supreme Court before Justice Bookstein Monday. A jury was completed and testimony opened. The actions had been partially tired in May, when a mis-trial was ruled by Justice Deckelman and the cases restored to the trial calendar.

Joseph Avis, local attorney, operator of one of the cars involved sues Joseph and Adeline Bua of New York for injuries, loss of income during the period he was confined to a hospital and also for damages to his car.

Mr. and Mrs. Bua sue Avis and a third action is brought by Mrs. Max Leventhal of Bronx, mother-in-law of Avis, for the death of her husband who was fatally injured. He was riding in the Avis car and this action is brought against both Avis and Bua.

Were in Collision

As Avis was driving his car north near West Park it and the Bua car were in collision. The Bua car was being operated south when a tire apparently blew. The Bua car went to the north bound lane and was stopped when struck by the Avis car. Bua contends Avis was negligent in that he did not stop his car or attempt to pass on the shoulder while Avis alleges the Bua car was the cause of the accident and that he was free from negligence.

Leventhal, a passenger in the Avis car, was not responsible for the act and on that theory both operators are sued by the widow for the death of Mr. Leventhal who was very severely injured, suffering fractured ribs and numerous other body injuries.

Avis is represented by Cashin & Ewig. Mr. and Mrs. Bua appear by Santagata and Santagata and Robert J. Keegan, Jr., appears for Mrs. Leventhal.

Senate Leaders

California already has said each committee has the unquestioned right to accept or reject any suggestions growing out of the study.

At a news conference last week President Eisenhower said Knowland had advised him that "effective steps are being taken by the Republican leadership to set up codes of fair procedure."

The President's statement, dealing indirectly with the storm over the questioning of Brig. Gen. Ralph Zwicker by McCarthy at a one-man hearing, said Congress has responsiblity for seeing that its committee procedures are fair and proper.

The bill offered by Douglas and Humphrey is similar to measures previously introduced but on which no action has been taken by the Senate Rules Committee.

Sen. Jenner (R.-Ind.), chairman of the rules committee, recently referred to the policy committee study of investigative procedures as "much ado about nothing."

The policy committee study was undertaken after Secretary Stevens contended McCarthy had abused and humiliated Zwicker in questioning him. At first Stevens said he would not permit Zwicker to return for further questioning. He later yielded on this point, however, saying he had received assurances from subcommittee members that army personnel questioned in the future would not be abused. McCarthy disputed that saying there had been no such abuse in the first place.

Bentley Has Satisfactory Night After Surgery

Washington, March 9 (AP)—Rep. Alvin M. Bentley (R.-Mich.), seriously wounded in the House of Representatives shooting last week, was reported today to have had a "very satisfactory night" following surgery yesterday.

Bentley, 35, underwent a 15-minute operation for removal of gauze packing from his shattered liver and for replacement of a drain.

Dr. Joseph R. Young, Casualty hospital chief of staff, said Bentley withstood it so well he might be taken off the serious list if his recovery continues for the next several days.

Continued improvement also was reported in the condition of Reps. Kenneth Roberts (D.-Ala.) and Ben F. Jensen (R.-Iowa), the other shooting victims who are still hospitalized.

Senate Gives Approval

Albany, March 9 (AP)—The Senate has given final approval to a resolution permitting board simultaneous consideration of bond proposals. The Assembly bill, sponsored by GOP Leader Lee B. Mailler, was endorsed unanimously last night. The legislation was designed to prevent repetition of a hitch that developed this year on three Dewey administration programs: A 350-million-dollar bond issue for mental hospital construction, a 200-million bond issue for public housing, and an increase in the ceiling on annual housing subsidies from 25 million to 34 million.

Local Bridge . . .

"because of delays and break downs encountered by traffic in the use of the Newburgh-Beacon ferry." The authority, he said, "is impressed with surveys of the State Department of Public Works, which indicate a volume of traffic over the proposed Newburgh-Beacon bridge, rivaling that of the Poughkeepsie bridge."

The letter notes that "The Mid-Hudson area, according to the State Department of Commerce, has become one of the fastest growing and developing regions in the state. Business and civic leaders best informed of conditions and prospects believe that with additional bridge crossings, cross-river traffic will increase by leaps and bounds, with the combined bridges not only self-liquidating, but promising an eventual net return for still further improvement of facilities."

To Eliminate Delay

The effect of the Hatfield legislation, the letter said, "will advance construction of the Newburgh-Beacon bridge by one to two years, without delaying completion of the Kingston-Rhinebeck bridge.

Postponement of work under the 1953 bridge law, it said, "would seriously affect plans for large-scale industrial and residential development in the Newburgh-Beacon section, with particular reference to its connection with the New York State Thruway."

It concluded: "The authority believes that public sentiment in all affected cities, including Kingston, supports the Hatfield bill as desirable and practical, and calculated to serve the best interests of the people, not only of the region, but of the state as a whole."

French Announce

Unogbi village, 12 miles northeast of Haiphong.

The French already had declared a state of emergency in Hanoi following a commando raid Sunday—the third such attack this month on Catbi airfield near Haiphong, where 44 U. S. Air Force technicians are stationed to service American planes supplied the French.

In the Uongbi raid, the rebels kidnaped "several" non-commissioned French Army officers who were stationed there as instructors for the Vietnamese, the French said.

'Some Losses'

An army spokesman said there were "some losses" on both sides.

Reinforced paratrooper patrols armed with submachineguns maintained a rigid guard around Catbi airbase, and paratroopers also were sent 12 miles southeast of Haiphong to Doson, where 105 American air technicians are based. Doson was raided several weeks ago, before the Americans arrived.

At Dien Bien Phu, their stronghold in northwest Indochina, the French after an offensive sortie reported killing six rebels in one minor clash with the Vietminh entrenched in the surrounding hills. French planes strafed and firebombed a rebel hill position east of Dien Bien Phu which the French earlier had captured, then evacuated.

U. S. Gains Ground

resolution. Discussion of it in the political-judicial committee was expected to take several more days.

Asks Consultation

The U. S. resolution would call for the 21 American republics to consult and act jointly against Communist seizure of power in any of the American states, just as they now are pledged to repel jointly invasion by a foreign aggressor. It would also provide for disclosure of identity, activities and sources of funds of persons spreading Communist propaganda or traveling in the interests of the Red cause.

Mexico submitted an amendment to expand such joint action to all forms of totalitarian intervention in the Americas.

Launching the committee debate yesterday, Dulles answered Guatemala's demand that he define international communism. He described it as "that far-flung clandestine political organization which is operated by the leaders of the Communist party of the Soviet Union." He said one of its aims was to bring parts of the western hemisphere into its grip.

He now is reported moving about his Vatican palace apartment some each day and devoting an ever increasing amount of time to church affairs.

Naguib Takes Back All His Old Jobs

Cairo, March 9 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Mohammed Naguib took all his old jobs back today in Egypt's military government. The man who deposed him 12 days ago, Lt. Col. Gamal Abdel Nasser, stepped back to the vice premiership he held originally.

Guidance Minister Salah Salem tensely announced Naguib's reinstatement as premier and chairman of the ruling revolutionary council. Naguib already had taken back the presidency after being ousted from all three posts and placed under guard at home Feb. 25 on charges he sought to become a "dictator."

Salem said the incidents of Naguib's ouster were erased at a joint meeting of the revolutionary council and the civil cabinet plate last night as though they had been nothing more than "a passing cloud."

Nasser, who had been president during the three days of Naguib's eclipse and premier and council chairman since, said in an interview today the full restoration of Naguib was made to end all quarrels before resumption of negotiations for withdrawal of British troops from the Suez canal zone.

Holds to Decision

Salem said the regime still held to its March 5 decision to establish a constituent assembly—an interim parliament—by July 27, and to abolish the 2-year-old rule of martial law and local press censorship. It was Salem who had announced Naguib's resignation and accused the popular, pipe-smoking army man of seeking absolute powers.

Naguib has become a near idol to millions of Egyptians hoping for an end to the feudal rule which has gripped this strife-torn Middle East country. But Nasser is regarded as the strong man of the revolution and has been the chief negotiator with the British on the deadlocked Suez issue.

One of those who attended the heavily-guarded, four-hour joint meeting last night said it was Nasser who suggested Naguib be given back his old posts, provided he give up his earlier demands for powers to veto the council's decisions and to hire and fire cabinet ministers.

"The council and Naguib welcomed the suggestion," the informant said.

General Weakens

Washington, March 9 (AP)—The condition of Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg has taken a turn for the worse, a Walter Reed Hospital spokesman said early today. The famed 54-year-old flier, who retired as air force chief of staff last June, has been in the hospital since Oct. 3. Nature of his illness has never been officially disclosed.

Three Actions Are Tried in Court

Three actions growing out of an automobile accident at West Park on September 4, 1950, were taken up for trial in Supreme Court before Justice Bookstein Monday. A jury was completed and testimony opened. The actions had been partially tired in May, when a mis-trial was ruled by Justice Deckelman and the cases restored to the trial calendar.

Joseph Avis, local attorney, operator of one of the cars involved sues Joseph and Adeline Bua of New York for injuries, loss of income during the period he was confined to a hospital and also for damages to his car.

Mr. and Mrs. Bua sue Avis and a third action is brought by Mrs. Max Leventhal of Bronx, mother-in-law of Avis, for the death of her husband who was fatally injured. He was riding in the Avis car and this action is brought against both Avis and Bua.

Were in Collision

As Avis was driving his car north near West Park it and the Bua car were in collision. The Bua car was being operated south when a tire apparently blew. The Bua car went to the north bound lane and was stopped when struck by the Avis car. Bua contends Avis was negligent in that he did not stop his car or attempt to pass on the shoulder while Avis alleges the Bua car was the cause of the accident and that he was free from negligence.

Leventhal, a passenger in the Avis car, was not responsible for the act and on that theory both operators are sued by the widow for the death of Mr. Leventhal who was very severely injured, suffering fractured ribs and numerous other body injuries.

Avis is represented by Cashin & Ewig. Mr. and Mrs. Bua appear by Santagata and Santagata and Robert J. Keegan, Jr., appears for Mrs. Leventhal.

The Blood You Give Helps Someone Live!

Right now blood is needed by thousands of men, women and children for surgery and medical treatment. It is needed, too, to build a national reserve of blood derivatives as "life insurance" for hundreds of thousands in times of disaster. But blood cannot be mined or manufactured. We must give it. And the time to give it is—now!

Senate Leaders

California already has said each committee has the unquestioned right to accept or reject any suggestions growing out of the study.

At a news conference last week President Eisenhower said Knowland had advised him that "effective steps are being taken by the Republican leadership to set up codes of fair procedure."

The President's statement, dealing indirectly with the storm over the questioning of Brig. Gen. Ralph Zwicker by McCarthy at a one-man hearing, said Congress has responsibility for seeing that its committee procedures are fair and proper.

The bill offered by Douglas and Humphrey is similar to measures previously introduced but on which no action has been taken by the Senate Rules Committee.

Sen. Jenner (R.-Ind.), chairman of the rules committee, recently referred to the policy committee study of investigative procedures as "much ado about nothing."

The policy committee study was undertaken after Secretary Stevens contended McCarthy had abused and humiliated Zwicker in questioning him. At first Stevens said he would not permit Zwicker to return for further questioning. He later yielded on this point, however, saying he had received assurances from subcommittee members that army personnel questioned in the future would not be abused. McCarthy disputed that saying there had been no such abuse in the first place.

Bentley Has Satisfactory Night After Surgery

Washington, March 9 (AP)—Rep. Alvin M. Bentley (R.-Mich.), seriously wounded in the House of Representatives shooting last week, was reported today to have had a "very satisfactory night" following surgery yesterday.

Bentley, 35, underwent a 15-minute operation for removal of gauze packing from his shattered liver and for replacement of a drain.

Dr. Joseph R. Young, Casualty hospital chief of staff, said Bentley withstood it so well he might be taken off the serious list if his recovery continues for the next several days.

Continued improvement also was reported in the condition of Reps. Kenneth Roberts (D.-Ala.) and Ben F. Jensen (R.-Iowa), the other shooting victims who are still hospitalized.

Senate Gives Approval

Albany, March 9 (AP)—The Senate has given final approval to a resolution permitting board simultaneous consideration of bond proposals. The Assembly bill, sponsored by GOP Leader Lee B. Mailler, was endorsed unanimously last night. The legislation was designed to prevent repetition of a hitch that developed this year on three Dewey administration programs: A 350-million-dollar bond issue for mental hospital construction, a 200-million bond issue for public housing, and an increase in the ceiling on annual housing subsidies from 25 million to 34 million.

Local Bridge . . .

"because of delays and break downs encountered by traffic in the use of the Newburgh-Beacon ferry." The authority, he said, "is impressed with surveys of the State Department of Public Works, which indicate a volume of traffic over the proposed Newburgh-Beacon bridge, rivaling that of the Poughkeepsie bridge."

The letter notes that "The Mid-Hudson area, according to the State Department of Commerce, has become one of the fastest growing and developing regions in the state. Business and civic leaders best informed of conditions and prospects believe that with additional bridge crossings, cross-river traffic will increase by leaps and bounds, with the combined bridges not only self-liquidating, but promising an eventual net return for still further improvement of facilities."

To Eliminate Delay

The effect of the Hatfield legislation, the letter said, "will advance construction of the Newburgh-Beacon bridge by one to two years, without delaying completion of the Kingston-Rhinebeck bridge.

Postponement of work under the 1953 bridge law, it said, "would seriously affect plans for large-scale industrial and residential development in the Newburgh-Beacon section, with particular reference to its connection with the New York State Thruway."

It concluded: "The authority believes that public sentiment in all affected cities, including Kingston, supports the Hatfield bill as desirable and practical, and calculated to serve the best interests of the people, not only of the region, but of the state as a whole."

French Announce

Unogbi village, 12 miles northeast of Haiphong.

The French already had declared a state of emergency in Hanoi following a commando raid Sunday—the third such attack this month on Catbi airfield near Haiphong, where 44 U. S. Air Force technicians are stationed to service American planes supplied the French.

In the Uongbi raid, the rebels kidnaped "several" non-commissioned French Army officers who were stationed there as instructors for the Vietnamese, the French said.

'Some Losses'

An army spokesman said there were "some losses" on both sides.

Reinforced paratrooper patrols armed with submachineguns maintained a rigid guard around Catbi airbase, and paratroopers also were sent 12 miles southeast of Haiphong to Doson, where 105 American air technicians are based. Doson was raided several weeks ago, before the Americans arrived.

At Dien Bien Phu, their stronghold in northwest Indochina, the French after an offensive sortie reported killing six rebels in one minor clash with the Vietminh entrenched in the surrounding hills. French planes strafed and firebombed a rebel hill position east of Dien Bien Phu which the French earlier had captured, then evacuated.

U. S. Gains Ground

resolution. Discussion of it in the political-judicial committee was expected to take several more days.

Asks Consultation

The U. S. resolution would call for the 21 American republics to consult and act jointly against Communist seizure of power in any of the American states, just as they now are pledged to repel jointly invasion by a foreign aggressor. It would also provide for disclosure of identity, activities and sources of funds of persons spreading Communist propaganda or traveling in the interests of the Red cause.

Mexico submitted an amendment to expand such joint action to all forms of totalitarian intervention in the Americas.

Launching the committee debate yesterday, Dulles answered Guatemala's demand that he define international communism. He described it as "that far-flung clandestine political organization which is operated by the leaders of the Communist party of the Soviet Union." He said one of its aims was to bring parts of the western hemisphere into its grip.

Pope's Health Improves

Vatican City, March 9 (AP)—Pope Pius is increasing his solid diet daily and regaining strength lost through his serious illness, Vatican sources said today. The 78-year-old pontiff, stricken six weeks ago by a serious gastric ailment, was unable to retain nourishment for the first days. He now is reported moving about his Vatican palace apartment some each day and devoting an ever increasing amount of time to church affairs.

Naguib Takes Back All His Old Jobs

Cairo, March 9 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Mohammed Naguib took all his old jobs back today in Egypt's military government. The man who deposed him 12 days ago, Lt. Col. Gamal Abdel Nasser, stepped back to the vice premiership he held originally.

Guidance Minister Salah Salem tensely announced Naguib's reinstatement as premier and chairman of the ruling revolutionary council. Naguib already had taken back the presidency after being ousted from all three posts and placed under guard at home Feb. 25 on charges he sought to become a "dictator."

Salem said the incidents of Naguib's ouster were erased at a joint meeting of the revolutionary council and the civil cabinet plate last night as though they had been nothing more than "a passing cloud."

Nasser, who had been president during the three days of Naguib's eclipse and premier and council chairman since, said in an interview today the full restoration of Naguib was made to end all quarrels before resumption of negotiations for withdrawal of British troops from the Suez canal zone.

Holds to Decision

Salem said the regime still held to its March 5 decision to establish a constituent assembly—an interim parliament—by July 27, and to abolish the 2-year-old rule of martial law and local press censorship. It was Salem who had announced Naguib's resignation and accused the popular, pipe-smoking army man of seeking absolute powers.

Naguib has become a near idol to millions of Egyptians hoping for an end to the feudal rule which has gripped this strife-torn Middle East country. But Nasser is regarded as the strong man of the revolution and has been the chief negotiator with the British on the deadlocked Suez issue.

One of those who attended the heavily-guarded, four-hour joint meeting last night said it was Nasser who suggested Naguib be given back his old posts, provided he give up his earlier demands for powers to veto the council's decisions and to hire and fire cabinet ministers.

"The council and Naguib welcomed the suggestion," the informant said.

General Weakens

Washington, March 9 (AP)—The condition of Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg has taken a turn for the worse, a Walter Reed Hospital spokesman said early today. The famed 54-year-old flier, who retired as air force chief of staff last June, has been in the hospital since Oct. 3. Nature of his illness has never been officially disclosed.

Uses Dog as Excuse

Westport, Conn., March 9 (AP)—Even Town Court Judge Bernard S. Peck joined spectators in laughter when M. Greece Has Shocks

Athens, Greece, March 9 (AP)—The Ionian Islands and western Greece were rocked by earth shocks yesterday, followed by torrential rains which later turned to snow. No casualties were reported. Twenty shocks in rapid succession hit the island of Kefallinia, toppling the shells of houses ruined in the devastating earthquakes of last August which took an estimated 1,000 lives in the area and left some 130,000 homeless. The longest shock yesterday—of 20 seconds duration was felt also on the islands of Ithaca and Zante and along Greece's western coast.

As Pegler Sees It

southwestern state for a similar reason.

Ever since the war ended, Europe and Asia on the Hitler side of the Iron Curtain have been crawling with misanthropic failures, many of them misfits of the newspaper business performing useless jobs and worse on a pretext of currying confidence among the working classes. In Greece when speed and hard work were necessary to finish a railroad job the workers were promised bonus pay, at American expense.

The Department of Labor under the late Maurice J. Tobin, of Boston, a poor, flabby job-holder of no competence whatever, boasted that an American "labor attache" had improved relations with Greek "labor" by compelling the contractors to pay the bonuses with Marshall Plan money.

The Department of Labor has been squandering millions all these years on "brochures" boasting of the achievements of these desultory unemployables from the American union offices, but published in English so that even if the text did have some value, it would be lost on the Europeans.

Miller was fired by James P. Mitchell, a stranger who was tagged for the office of secretary of labor after Martin Durkin, a Democrat, and the president of the Plumbers' Union called Ike, in effect, a doublecrossing liar and resigned. Durkin quit just in time to spare Ike the necessity of throwing him out because he was hardly out the door when the corruption in locals of the Plumbers' Union began to explode, always with repercussions of blame in Durkin's national headquarters. There is nothing wrong with Ike that moral courage wouldn't cure, but he keeps trying the winsome grin instead.

As Pegler Sees It

southwestern state for a similar reason.

Ever since the war ended, Europe and Asia on the Hitler side of the Iron Curtain have been crawling with misanthropic failures, many of them misfits of the newspaper business performing useless jobs and worse on a pretext of currying confidence among the working classes. In Greece when speed and hard work were necessary to finish a railroad job the workers were promised bonus pay, at American expense.

The Department of Labor under the late Maurice J. Tobin, of Boston, a poor, flabby job-holder of no competence whatever, boasted that an American "labor attache" had improved relations with Greek "labor" by compelling the contractors to pay the bonuses with Marshall Plan money.

The Department of Labor has been squandering millions all these years on "brochures" boasting of the achievements of these desultory unemployables from the American union offices, but published in English so that even if the text did have some value, it would be lost on the Europeans.

Miller was fired by James P. Mitchell, a stranger who was tagged for the office of secretary of labor after Martin Durkin, a Democrat, and the president of the Plumbers' Union called Ike, in effect, a doublecrossing liar and resigned. Durkin quit just in time to spare Ike the necessity of throwing him out because he was hardly out the door when the corruption in locals of the Plumbers' Union began to explode, always with repercussions of blame in Durkin's national headquarters. There is nothing wrong with Ike that moral courage wouldn't cure, but he keeps trying the winsome grin instead.

Salary Bills Are Ready for Dewey

Albany, March 9 (AP)—Bills to raise the salaries of the state comptroller and the attorney general by $5,000 each are ready for Gov. Dewey's signature.

The two measures last night won final legislative approval in a unanimous Senate vote. They provide for increasing the pay of each official from $20,000 to $25,000 a year, effective next Jan. 1.

Dewey is certain to approve. The Legislature has raised the salary for his office from $25,000 to $50,000 a year, and that of the lieutenant governor from $10,000 to $25,000 a year, also effective next Jan. 1.

The resolutions raising the governor's and lieutenant governor's salaries do not require Dewey's signature.

In other developments last night:

1. The Senate Judiciary Committee reported favorably on the Dewey administration's proposal for a local option system of permanent personal registration of voters. It thus assured a floor vote on PPR—the first in the long history of such proposals.

2. The Assembly unanimously passed a bill that would empower the State Thruway Authority to set up its own uniformed police force for enforcement of traffiic rules on the superhighway.

3. A bill that would extend state aid for the support of Children's Court awards was approved unanimously by the Assembly.

4. The Senate passed—and then called back—a controversial measure to establish a uniform jury system in the 57 counties outside New York city, which already has one.

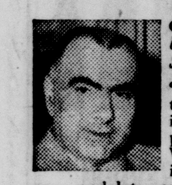

A Democrat stymied the uniform jury measure after it had been passed by the Senate in a 53-2 vote. Francis Mahoney of Manhattan, the minority leader, pointed out that many upstate Republicans opposed the idea.

The vote promptly was reconsidered, and the bill, sponsored by Sen. Pliny Williamson, Scarsdale Republican, was laid aside.

The proposal would establish for each county a commissioner of juries, supervised by justices of the Supreme Court's Appellate Division. Despite Gov. Dewey's endorsement, many upstate Republicans have opposed the plan on the ground that it would be costly.

German Defense Plan

Bonn, Germany, March 9 (AP)—An official source said today the West German Interior Ministry has drafted a detailed plan for the nation's first civil defense program since World War 2. The program is to be submitted soon to Parliament with a request for a special appropriation to cover its cost, the source said. It aims at getting started within six months on the building of new air raid shelters and the repairing of old community bunkers, the setting up of local, state and federal organizations, and the establishment of air alarm centers in close cooperation with the western allied occupation forces.

Mile-a-minute phone call

Ever make a phone call at 60 m. p. h.? It's easy—if you're a passenger aboard many of the crack trains in and out of New York State. You simply stroll to the phone booth in the club car, give the operator the number you wish to call, and in minutes you'll be talking to your party.

Short-wave receivers along the way pick up the call from the fast-moving train and transmit it through regular telephone lines. Even though each word you speak into the mouthpiece is literally from a different place, conversation is clear and easy.

Maybe you didn't know that these telephones on trains—as well as mobile phones in many passenger cars, electric-utility trucks, police- and fire-department vehicles and harbor craft—are also a service of your telephone company. A service that helps make your daily life easier, safer and more enjoyable. New York Telephone Company.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By EDDY GILMORE
(For Hal Boyle)

New York (AP)—One of the most articulate men in America is a banjo player who never got beyond the eighth grade.

His name is Eddie Condon (born Albert Edward Condon), a high priest of pure jazz, who has a consistency akin to the late Babe Ruth's.

The Babe never threw to a wrong base. Eddie never played a wrong chord.

After an honest start on the banjo, Condon has come down to the guitar and he's one of the best in the business. He's a man not given to bragging. The only self praise I ever heard him indulge in was the remark, "I've never played a solo in my life."

It's Eddie's articulation with words, not music, that fascinates so many of his listeners and friends. Consider his comment on an eminent French music critic who denounced American jazz.

"Who does that frog thing he is," asked Eddie, "to come over here and try to tell us how to play? We don't go over there and tell them how to jump on a grape."

That is typical of Eddie.

His name for friends and peoplae are just as amusing.

I was talking to him the other night about a mutual friend who, although he'd never been south of South Chicago, suddenly developed a very strong case of south mouth.

"He's really got a southern accent," I said.

"He certainly has," commented Eddie. "He talks like AMOS AND ANDY."

Condon has no opinion on the subject of bop. He just never thinks of it. If he did I'm sure he would loathe it, but someone played a bop record for him the other day and insisted that he comment.

"I sat through a hurricane in 1944 on a beach out in Jersey," said Eddie, "and this is very remindful of it."

"Perhaps," observed the man who was interviewing him, "but how do you rate the record?"

"How do you rate a hurricane?" asked Eddie.

Condon's observations on the human scene and on human beings are not confined to musicians. He introduced me to a college professor one night and later told me the prof once played football for Notre Dame.

"He looks a little old and frail for that," I said.

"Oh, he was playing before they put air in the football," he said.

The Condon household in New York's Greenwich Village is a seven room contradiction.

It's the apartment of a musician, yet there isn't a guitar or a banjo in the place.

Condon has made at least 500 phonograph records in his life, but there's no phonograph in his apartment and not a single record.

Eddie appreciates Scotch whisky, but not on the home grounds. No bottle ever appears in the place unless some friends bring it. Down at his nightclub, however, Mr. Condon is known as a free pourer.

He has an unusual remedy for hangovers.

"For a hangover," he suggests, "take the juice of a quart of whisky."

Actually, he drinks 20 times as much milk as he does strong spirit. He eats nothing during the daylight hours, but his liquid par is three quarts of sweet milk and one quart of buttermilk.

His friend and cornet player, Wild Bill Davison recently opened an antique shop somewhere on the Hudson.

"What are you going to call it?" Eddie asked.

"Trash and treasures," said Bill.

Eddie shook his head.

"What's wrong with that name?"

"Nothing," said Eddie, "but I would have called it 'Wild Bull and his china closet'."

Condon is the sort of friend who doesn't give you one key to his apartment. He gives you several.

"Tomorrow," he said to me one day, "when you're out in the world, will you have some keys made to this place?"

"How many?"

"One for Phyllis" (his clever, pretty wife), "one for me, one for the maid and four for you," he said, "you lose things."

Senate Favors New Legal Point For Homicides

Albany, March 9 (AP)—Amid Democratic warnings that the innocent might suffer, the Senate last night voted to give law enforcement authorities a new weapon in homicide cases.

By a 32-23 vote, it passed a bill that would allow prosecution of homicide cases either in the county where the slaying was committed or in the county in which the victim's body—or part of it—was found.

Under present law, the scene of the crime must be established.

The Senate gave final approval to a bill empowering the governor to appoint a state agency to handle natural disasters.

Final Assembly approval was given to legislation that would exempt members of the armed forces from state income tax on their military pay.

All the Democratic senators and five Republicans opposed the homicide measure.

Its sponsor, Republican Sen. George T. Manning of Rochester, said its passage would help authorities who had been hampered in some cases because they could not establish beyond doubt where the crime took place.

Fears for Innocent

Democratic Sen. Louis L. Friedman of Brooklyn contended that the bill's enactment might hurt the innocent, and put "undue and costly legal impediments" in the path of their defense.

"It's better to let nine guilty men escape rather than to convict one innocent man," he said.

The income tax bill, sponsored by Republican Sen. Carlo A. Lanzillotti of Long Island City, was sent to the governor.

Assemblyman Elisha T. Barrett, Brightwaters Republican, introduced the measure that would allow the governor to appoint an agency to handle natural disasters. It would cover state coordination efforts in defense against flood, fire, hurricane or other catastrophe.

Final approval was given in the Senate to a bill that would extend retirement credit to teachers for time they spent in the armed forces during the Korean war.

The Senate passed a measure that would exempt championship bowling tournaments from provisions of the state's blue laws banning sports and shows on Sunday. Localities are permitted to authorize by ordinance certain sports and games after 2 p. m. on Sunday.

STEPFATHER'S FEELINGS

A sensitive stepfather writes me: "About a year ago I married a widow with two grown children. I get on very well with them and a happy relationship exists between us. Betty, the oldest daughter, is to be married soon and I understand that she plans on asking her uncle (her father's brother) to give her away. She has always been very fond of this uncle and, I must admit, he has been good to her. However, I can't help feeling hurt over this and think that as her legal stepfather, I should be given this honor. Will you please give me your opinion?"

I think you are quite wrong in feeling hurt over this. After all, you have known her only a short time, whereas her uncle has known her since she was born, and in choosing him nobody could possibly think you slighted.

Concerning Flowers

Dear Mrs. Post: We will be having our senior prom soon and several of my classmates as well as myself would like to know if it is proper to ask the girls we invite to the dance, what kind of flowers they would like? Or do we just send them what we think they would like. (2) Also, do we take them with us when calling for the girls or should they be sent beforehand?

Answer: (1) It would be best to ask each girl what color dress she is wearing, then you could better choose flowers to go with it. But if you ask what kind she would like, she might ask for orchids or other flowers of cost that would be embarrassing to you. (2) It is advisable to send them beforehand, so that she can have time to pin them on the way she thinks they look best.

Present to Strange Bride

Dear Mrs. Post: My cousin is going to be married soon. His bride-to-be is from another city and I have not met her as yet. I would like to know where to send the wedding present. Would it be proper to send it to the bridegroom since I do not know the bride-to-be's address?

Answer: If you can't find out where she lives, you will, of course, have to address it to the bride in care of the bridegroom.

Teachers Give Salary Report

The Freeman is printing in four parts the report of the salary revision committee of Kingston public school teachers. The report was presented to the board of education at its regular meeting last Thursday evening. The second part follows:

What is the professional salary in other fields?

No figures are available on lawyers and physicians in private practice in the area. But we do know that no teacher is earning more than $4,500 for his teaching duties, and, under the present schedule, none could ever earn more than $5,100. It is obvious with these figures in mind, that a teacher's earning power is only a fraction of that possible in law and medicine.

There is, however, information on professional workers on a national level. These figures cannot be disregarded because of their scope; New York State is above the national average.

These positions are state and county positions located in this area or available to citizens in this area.

Conclusions Drawn

1. Teachers are professional people. They deserve professional salaries.

2. Teachers never have received, and are not now receiving, professional salaries.

3. Teachers' salaries must be adjusted now to a professional level.

Cost of Living

Without preamble, let us examine the facts on cost of living as they apply to teachers' salaries.

Teachers' salaries have not increased as rapidly as income payments to individuals since 1939. The real income of teachers in terms of 1939 purchasing power after taxes has been reduced. This means lower living standards.

The table following provides a comparison between per capita income payments and teachers' salaries in New York state outside of New York city.

Between 1939 and 1946 wages nearly doubled while teachers' salaries increased by less than 20 per cent. Since 1946 the trend has reversed and average weekly factory wages have risen about 43 per cent as compared with an increase of 84 per cent in teachers' salaries.

Teacher Salaries Lag

In spite of the change in trend, teachers' salaries currently lag far behind their 1939 status relative to factory workers. Whereas since 1939 average factory wages have gone up by 173 per cent, average teachers' salaries are up only 110 per cent as shown in the table below.

Morale is an intangible thing, an accumulation, within a group, of varying degrees of satisfaction or dissatisfaction in respect to certain commonly shared activities. Usually it is difficult to typify a group as having high or low morale, without granting many exceptions. What can be said, with almost no exceptions, about the teachers of the Kingston schools, is that they are extremely disturbed about many phases of school life; insofar as these influence morale, their morale is low. In examining these problem areas, it becomes apparent that establishing professional salaries should be the first step in alleviating them.

(Wednesday: Inequities claimed and cases cited. Teacher strain discussed).

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, March 9—March callers in the hub of the reservoir country included Mrs. Richard Studhalter and small daughter Mary who were en-route to their farm near Andes following a visit with friends in the metropolitan area. Mrs. Studhalter's husband is a member of the local fire department and tax collector of the town of Andes. The couple plan to sell their large dairy farm with a view to moving to the Kingston area.

The milder weather of Sunday started the maple sap running again and softened up the thin layer of frost in the ground. Reports from Delaware and Greene counties indicate the February early run of sap was good. In neighboring Greene for instance, Robert Dymond has made over 200 gallons of syrup at his 4500-bucket sugar bush while Miles Kohler, Jr., and assistants in one day gathered about 1,000 gallons of sap, during the unusually warm spell.

Chester Barley, Kingston man who was brought up in the town of Rochester, was a village center caller during the week.

Having a birthday Friday, March 12, is Mrs. Clarence Phillips, Sr., town of Hurley matron and one time resident of Shokan. Mrs. Phillips who was born in the Glenford section of Hurley, is the mother of Mrs. Raymond (Kathleen) Buley who with her husband and 10 children lives near Tonche Mountain.

An early harbinger of spring was the large turnout of motorists on the Onteora Trail and reservoir boulevards Sunday afternoon. Between four o'clock and six the skiers were returning from the mountains and these together with the hundreds of motorists who were "just riding around" afforded the villagers an excellent opportunity of viewing the latest styles in pleasure cars.

James Tyler who with his family resides near Old Hurley was a caller here last week. James drives truck for a Kingston asphalting concern. He lived in Shokan as a boy; his father, Kenneth Tyler, now employed at Hiltebrant's boat yard, is son of Mrs. Bert Tyler of Ulster Park who as Carrie Traphagen resided here and attended Shokan School. One of James' great-grandfathers, Tjerck Traphagen, was a soldier in the War of 1812 from Olive.

All Cub Scout parents of Pack 7, and other parents of Cub Scouts or children who may become Cub Scouts, are invited to this meeting.

Complaint Is Filed

Ventura, Calif., March 9 (AP)—The sixth marriage of sugar heir Adolph B. Spreckels, Jr., 42, lasted just 34 days, according to a divorce complaint filed here. The complaint, charging cruelty, was filed against Judith Powell, 22, beautiful Beverly Hills equestrienne, it was disclosed last night. The document said the couple married Jan. 31 at Las Vegas, Nev., and separated last Thursday.

111 Puerto Ricans Get Subpoenaes

New York, March 9 (AP)—Subpoenaes were served on 111 Puerto Ricans here and in Chicago yesterday in a sudden move connected with the shooting of five congressmen in Washington last week.

The swift drive was the largest peacetime serving of federal witnesses in connection with a single conspiracy.

Mrs. Rosa Collazo, wife of a would-be assassin of former President Harry S. Truman, was among the 91 persons subpoenaed here. Her husband is now serving a life sentence.

All four persons arrested in the Washington shootings admitted membership in the fanatic Nationalist party of Puerto Rico.

The witnesses here will be questioned by three grand juries investigating the local activities of the party.

The Chicago witnesses will be questioned in connection with laws governing conspiracy to overthrow the government by force.

The Nationalist party is seeking immediate independence for Puerto Rico, a measure which has repeatedly been defeated by large majorities in the island commonwealth's assembly.

Air Academy Bill May Be Delayed

Washington, March 9 (AP) — The proposed air force academy had approval of both the Senate and House today but a Senate proposal to interchange young officers among all the services may delay final action.

Authorization for the academy at a cost of 126 million dollars—similar to the army's West Point and the navy's Annapolis—cleared the Senate yesterday by a voice vote.

Only Sen. Gore (D-Tenn.), who contended West Point and Annapolis should be merged instead of creating a third academy, was heard to register opposition.

The Senate attached a provision by Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) to allow up to 12½ per cent of the graduates of all three academies to transfer to other services, subject to approval at those who volunteer by the secretaries of the army, navy and air force.

Russell argued this would act to further unification of the armed services.

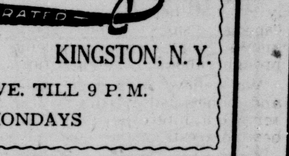

Gets Volunteers

At present, under an informal agreement, the air force gets one fourth of the graduates of West Point and Annapolis who volunteer. This provides about 350 air force lieutenants each year, compared with 600 or more who would graduate from the air academy when it gets into full operation.

The Senate has approved proposed officer interchanges in past years but the House always has rejected them. Some members there are reported to fear such a transfer might be used sometime in the future to cut down the marine corps.

The air academy bill was passed by the House in January. Differences in the two versions will be threshed out by a Senate-House conference committee.

Teachers Give Salary Report

The Freeman is printing in four parts the report of the salary revision committee of Kingston public school teachers. The report was presented to the board of education at its regular meeting last Thursday evening. The second part follows:

What is the professional salary in other fields?

No figures are available on lawyers and physicians in private practice in the area. But we do know that no teacher is earning more than $4,500 for his teaching duties, and, under the present schedule, none could ever earn more than $5,100. It is obvious with these figures in mind, that a teacher's earning power is only a fraction of that possible in law and medicine.

There is, however, information on professional workers on a national level. These figures cannot be disregarded because of their scope; New York State is above the national average.

These positions are state and county positions located in this area or available to citizens in this area.

Conclusions Drawn

1. Teachers are professional people. They deserve professional salaries.

2. Teachers never have received, and are not now receiving, professional salaries.

3. Teachers' salaries must be adjusted now to a professional level.

Cost of Living

Without preamble, let us examine the facts on cost of living as they apply to teachers' salaries.

Teachers' salaries have not increased as rapidly as income payments to individuals since 1939. The real income of teachers in terms of 1939 purchasing power after taxes has been reduced. This means lower living standards.

The table following provides a comparison between per capita income payments and teachers' salaries in New York state outside of New York city.

Between 1939 and 1946 wages nearly doubled while teachers' salaries increased by less than 20 per cent. Since 1946 the trend has reversed and average weekly factory wages have risen about 43 per cent as compared with an increase of 84 per cent in teachers' salaries.

Teacher Salaries Lag

In spite of the change in trend, teachers' salaries currently lag far behind their 1939 status relative to factory workers. Whereas since 1939 average factory wages have gone up by 173 per cent, average teachers' salaries are up only 110 per cent as shown in the table below.

Morale is an intangible thing, an accumulation, within a group, of varying degrees of satisfaction or dissatisfaction in respect to certain commonly shared activities. Usually it is difficult to typify a group as having high or low morale, without granting many exceptions. What can be said, with almost no exceptions, about the teachers of the Kingston schools, is that they are extremely disturbed about many phases of school life; insofar as these influence morale, their morale is low. In examining these problem areas, it becomes apparent that establishing professional salaries should be the first step in alleviating them.

Ventura, Calif., March 9 (AP)—The sixth marriage of sugar heir Adolph B. Spreckels, Jr., 42, lasted just 34 days, according to a divorce complaint filed here. The complaint, charging cruelty, was filed against Judith Powell, 22, beautiful Beverly Hills equestrienne, it was disclosed last night. The document said the couple married Jan. 31 at Las Vegas, Nev., and separated last Thursday.

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, March 9—March callers in the hub of the reservoir country included Mrs. Richard Studhalter and small daughter Mary who were en-route to their farm near Andes following a visit with friends in the metropolitan area. Mrs. Studhalter's husband is a member of the local fire department and tax collector of the town of Andes. The couple plan to sell their large dairy farm with a view to moving to the Kingston area.

The milder weather of Sunday started the maple sap running again and softened up the thin layer of frost in the ground. Reports from Delaware and Greene counties indicate the February early run of sap was good. In neighboring Greene for instance, Robert Dymond has made over 200 gallons of syrup at his 4500-bucket sugar bush while Miles Kohler, Jr., and assistants in one day gathered about 1,000 gallons of sap, during the unusually warm spell.

Chester Barley, Kingston man who was brought up in the town of Rochester, was a village center caller during the week.

Having a birthday Friday, March 12, is Mrs. Clarence Phillips, Sr., town of Hurley matron and one time resident of Shokan. Mrs. Phillips who was born in the Glenford section of Hurley, is the mother of Mrs. Raymond (Kathleen) Buley who with her husband and 10 children lives near Tonche Mountain.

An early harbinger of spring was the large turnout of motorists on the Onteora Trail and reservoir boulevards Sunday afternoon. Between four o'clock and six the skiers were returning from the mountains and these together with the hundreds of motorists who were "just riding around" afforded the villagers an excellent opportunity of viewing the latest styles in pleasure cars.

James Tyler who with his family resides near Old Hurley was a caller here last week. James drives truck for a Kingston asphalting concern. He lived in Shokan as a boy; his father, Kenneth Tyler, now employed at Hiltebrant's boat yard, is son of Mrs. Bert Tyler of Ulster Park who as Carrie Traphagen resided here and attended Shokan School. One of James' great-grandfathers, Tjerck Traphagen, was a soldier in the War of 1812 from Olive.

111 Puerto Ricans Get Subpoenaes

New York, March 9 (AP)—Subpoenaes were served on 111 Puerto Ricans here and in Chicago yesterday in a sudden move connected with the shooting of five congressmen in Washington last week.

The swift drive was the largest peacetime serving of federal witnesses in connection with a single conspiracy.

Mrs. Rosa Collazo, wife of a would-be assassin of former President Harry S. Truman, was among the 91 persons subpoenaed here. Her husband is now serving a life sentence.

All four persons arrested in the Washington shootings admitted membership in the fanatic Nationalist party of Puerto Rico.

The witnesses here will be questioned by three grand juries investigating the local activities of the party.

The Chicago witnesses will be questioned in connection with laws governing conspiracy to overthrow the government by force.

The Nationalist party is seeking immediate independence for Puerto Rico, a measure which has repeatedly been defeated by large majorities in the island commonwealth's assembly.

Air Academy Bill May Be Delayed

Washington, March 9 (AP) — The proposed air force academy had approval of both the Senate and House today but a Senate proposal to interchange young officers among all the services may delay final action.

Authorization for the academy at a cost of 126 million dollars—similar to the army's West Point and the navy's Annapolis—cleared the Senate yesterday by a voice vote.

Only Sen. Gore (D-Tenn.), who contended West Point and Annapolis should be merged instead of creating a third academy, was heard to register opposition.

The Senate attached a provision by Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) to allow up to 12½ per cent of the graduates of all three academies to transfer to other services, subject to approval at those who volunteer by the secretaries of the army, navy and air force.

Russell argued this would act to further unification of the armed services.

Gets Volunteers

At present, under an informal agreement, the air force gets one fourth of the graduates of West Point and Annapolis who volunteer. This provides about 350 air force lieutenants each year, compared with 600 or more who would graduate from the air academy when it gets into full operation.

The Senate has approved proposed officer interchanges in past years but the House always has rejected them. Some members there are reported to fear such a transfer might be used sometime in the future to cut down the marine corps.

The air academy bill was passed by the House in January. Differences in the two versions will be threshed out by a Senate-House conference committee.

If you succeed in life, you must do it in spite of the efforts of others to pull you down. There is nothing in the idea that people are willing to help those who help themselves. People are willing to help a man who can't help himself, but as soon as a man is able to help himself, and does it, they join in making his life as uncomfortable as possible.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

No matter how much research I do for this column I always seem to run into something new and exciting. I wonder how many folks ever heard of the Freer Gallery of Art at Washington, D. C. It is said, back in The Kingston Freeman and Journal of May 1, 1923, the collection and building which houses it, is worth $7,000,000. Charles Freer, the donor, was born in Kingston in 1856. He made his fortune in Detroit in railroad and construction work. So far I have never heard of this art gallery. It seems Mr. Freer devoted the latter part of his life to collecting famous works of art from all parts of the world and offered to donate them to the government as early as 1904. It was not until 1906 that Congress voted the site on the ground of the Smithsonian Institute. After the date of acceptance, Mr. Freer trebled his collection and increased the appropriation for a building to $1,000,000.

The Freer Exhibit embraces 4,811 art pieces of which 991 are American and 3,820 Oriental. Most conspicuous among these is the collection of James McNeil Whistler, including more than 100 oil paintings, water colors, pastels, etchings, lithographs, engravings and drawings, as well as the Peacock Room which was removed in its entirety from the house to London, where it was decorated by Whistler for F. R. Leyland. The building which houses the the collection follows the architecture of the Renaissance. Built of white stone, it provides one main exhibition floor of 18 top lighted galleries and the Peacock Room surrounding an open garden. The floor below the gallery to be used for storage, study, lecture hall and offices.

According to the newspaper item: "By its acceptances of the gift, the government agreed to provide sufficient funds to be expended by the Smithsonian Institution for the maintenance of the building and the exhibit. This was the first occasion on which Congress voted a material appropriation for the maintenance of a National Art Museum as an adjunct of the government." It further said: "Charles Freer was a brother of the late Watson M. Freer who lived on the Saugerties road on the Maple Lane farm." I take it to be the same Freer family, which were mentioned in this column, on Thursday, March 4, 1954, which sold their large Maple Lane farm, on the Kingston-Saugerties road, to Adelbert H. Chambers of Kingston, around April of 1923. No double local residents know much more about the Freer Art Museum at Washington, D. C.

Always when going through an old newspaper I cannot help but read the advertisements. Van Wagenen's took a full page Tuesday, May 15, 1923. They were selling gray enamelware in such items as five quart tea kettles for 45 cents, five quart dishpans went for nine cents. Boys corduroy pants were 95 cents. Women's mercerized hosiery were 39 cents and women's silk lisle hose were 19 cents. You could buy a heavy cotton blanket for $1.98 a pair and silkaline covered comforts for only $2.98, while krinkle bedspreads went for $1.98. Seamed sheets could be had for 98 cents and pillow cases for 25 cents each. Men's good madras shirts were 85 cents and men's blue denim overalls were $1 a pair.

Seeking Small Plants

Washington, March 8 (AP)—The Defense Department is shopping for small self-contained atomic power plants that can be transported by air to U. S. air bases in the Arctic. The power package would include a reactor to provide heat to run a steam plant which would produce up to 1,500 kilowatts of electricity. The fuel would be enriched uranium and would have to be replaced only once a year—a big advantage in places where Arctic ice bars tankers for 10 months out of every 12. The Atomic Energy Commission said yesterday that, at Defense Department request, it was inviting bids from private companies, to be submitted by March 20, on building an experimental plant.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

No matter how much research I do for this column I always seem to run into something new and exciting. I wonder how many folks ever heard of the Freer Gallery of Art at Washington, D. C. It is said, back in The Kingston Freeman and Journal of May 1, 1923, the collection and building which houses it, is worth $7,000,000. Charles Freer, the donor, was born in Kingston in 1856. He made his fortune in Detroit in railroad and construction work. So far I have never heard of this art gallery. It seems Mr. Freer devoted the latter part of his life to collecting famous works of art from all parts of the world and offered to donate them to the government as early as 1904. It was not until 1906 that Congress voted the site on the ground of the Smithsonian Institute. After the date of acceptance, Mr. Freer trebled his collection and increased the appropriation for a building to $1,000,000.

The Freer Exhibit embraces 4,811 art pieces of which 991 are American and 3,820 Oriental. Most conspicuous among these is the collection of James McNeil Whistler, including more than 100 oil paintings, water colors, pastels, etchings, lithographs, engravings and drawings, as well as the Peacock Room which was removed in its entirety from the house to London, where it was decorated by Whistler for F. R. Leyland. The building which houses the the collection follows the architecture of the Renaissance. Built of white stone, it provides one main exhibition floor of 18 top lighted galleries and the Peacock Room surrounding an open garden. The floor below the gallery to be used for storage, study, lecture hall and offices.

According to the newspaper item: "By its acceptances of the gift, the government agreed to provide sufficient funds to be expended by the Smithsonian Institution for the maintenance of the building and the exhibit. This was the first occasion on which Congress voted a material appropriation for the maintenance of a National Art Museum as an adjunct of the government." It further said: "Charles Freer was a brother of the late Watson M. Freer who lived on the Saugerties road on the Maple Lane farm." I take it to be the same Freer family, which were mentioned in this column, on Thursday, March 4, 1954, which sold their large Maple Lane farm, on the Kingston-Saugerties road, to Adelbert H. Chambers of Kingston, around April of 1923. No double local residents know much more about the Freer Art Museum at Washington, D. C.

Always when going through an old newspaper I cannot help but read the advertisements. Van Wagenen's took a full page Tuesday, May 15, 1923. They were selling gray enamelware in such items as five quart tea kettles for 45 cents, five quart dishpans went for nine cents. Boys corduroy pants were 95 cents. Women's mercerized hosiery were 39 cents and women's silk lisle hose were 19 cents. You could buy a heavy cotton blanket for $1.98 a pair and silkaline covered comforts for only $2.98, while krinkle bedspreads went for $1.98. Seamed sheets could be had for 98 cents and pillow cases for 25 cents each. Men's good madras shirts were 85 cents and men's blue denim overalls were $1 a pair.

Seeking Small Plants

Washington, March 8 (AP)—The Defense Department is shopping for small self-contained atomic power plants that can be transported by air to U. S. air bases in the Arctic. The power package would include a reactor to provide heat to run a steam plant which would produce up to 1,500 kilowatts of electricity. The fuel would be enriched uranium and would have to be replaced only once a year—a big advantage in places where Arctic ice bars tankers for 10 months out of every 12. The Atomic Energy Commission said yesterday that, at Defense Department request, it was inviting bids from private companies, to be submitted by March 20, on building an experimental plant.

Maroons in Final Home Game Tonight Against Mont Pleasant High

Upstaters Bring In 13-4 Record On Season's Play

The 1953-54 curtain comes down on the local home schedule for Coach G. Warren Kias' Maroon and White basketeers tonight when Mont Pleasant comes in for its intersectional clash at the Kate Walton Field House.

Game time for the feature fray is 8 o'clock with a preliminary scheduled for 6:15 p. m.

Tonight's contest marks the end of the long home season for the locals. Providing the Maroons upend Mont Pleasant, they will close out the season next Friday night in an intersectional finale against Nott Terrace at Troy High School.

Local Chances Good

Despite the loss of the DUSO Basketball League crown to Poughkeepsie in that thriller last Saturday night, Kingston stands an excellent chance of copping the intersectional competition.

Playing on their home court tonight, the Kiasmen are rated favorites to trip Mont Pleasant which has a 13 and 4 record for this year's activity. Two of those setbacks came at the hands of Nott Terrace.

Both of the defeats to Nott Terrace, by the way, came in the final quarters of both tilts. Mont Pleasant headed NT for the first three periods in both contests but lost out in the final canto.

Nott Terrace opened the 1953-54 intersectional play last Friday night with a 72 to 60 victory over Newburgh but according to some who saw the game, Kingston should be able to take Nott Terrace. The biggest threat Nott Terrace displayed was Lou Sammo who collected 30 of the 72 points.

Team Lacks Height

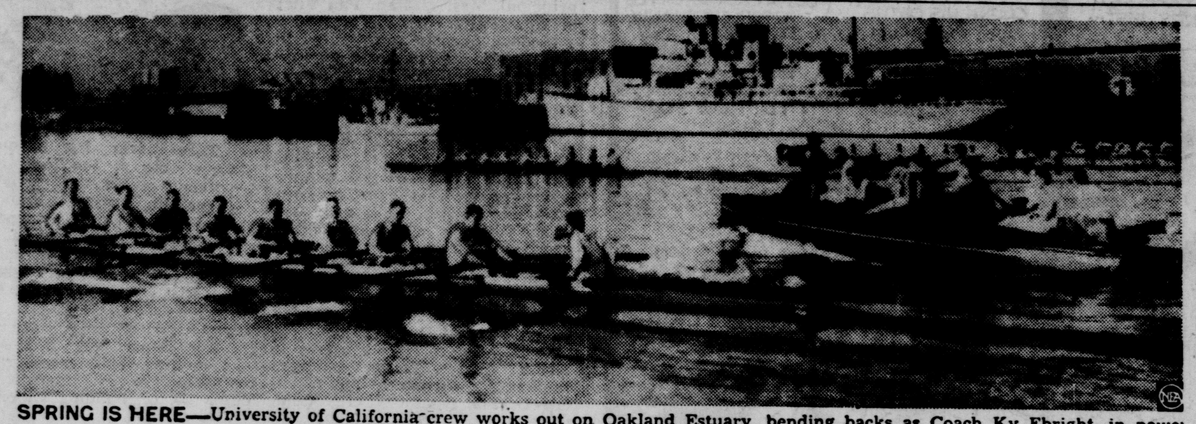

As far as Mont Pleasant is concerned with tonight's local skirmish, Coach Ray Vacca of the Dorpian City quintet is moaning the lack of height. Vacca hinted his Mont Pleasant team might have had an unbeaten season this year if his club had the vital height.

So far this year Mont Pleasant holds double victories over Albany High, Troy, St. Mary's of Amsterdam, Amsterdam High, Draper High and also single triumphs over Glens Falls, Scotia and Little Falls. Besides the two losses to Nott Terrace, Mont Pleasant has been beaten by Glens Falls and Scotia.

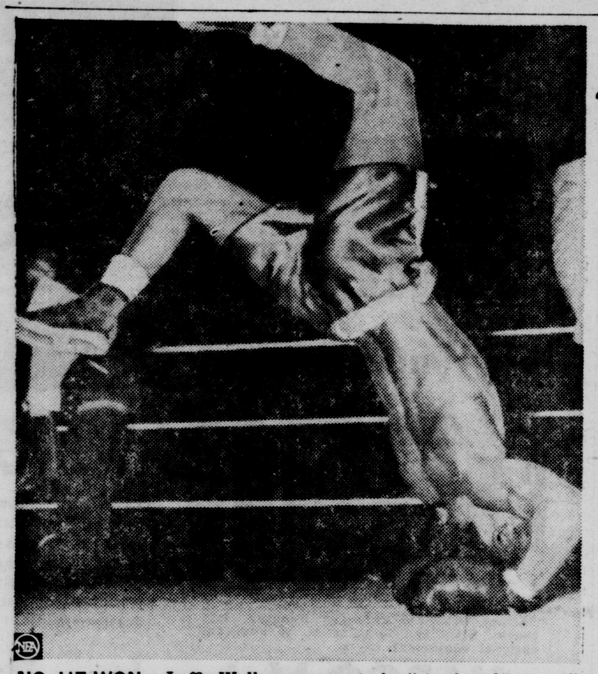

Coach Vacca announced the following lineup for tonight:

Mont Pleasant		Kingston
Lou Jordan	F	Skip Brodhead
Larry Loudis	F	John Godwin
Allen Sheals	C	Dick Bezemer
Dick Bacca	G	Bob Bondar
Geo. O'Brien	G	Bill Haber

Jack Christiansen of the Detroit Lions led the National Football League in punt returns in 1952. Last season he finished first in pass interceptions.

Boston Slugger Will Undergo Surgery Today

Cambridge, Mass., March 9 (AP)—Boston Red Sox slugger Ted Williams will undergo an operation on his broken collarbone today that may hasten his return to baseball. He may be in the lineup early in May.

Attending physicians emphasized yesterday that their major concern is not to rush the $100,000-a-year star back into action, but rather to relieve the considerable pain he is in because of imperfect healing.

The 35-year-old Williams was injured in a fall March 1 as he tried to catch a sinking line drive at the team's Sarasota, Fla., camp.

X-rays taken yesterday disclosed "marked displacement of small sections of the broken left collarbone." The team of three doctors also said two small bits of bone "had been broken off, or chipped."

Johnny Pesky of the Detroit Tigers has played 1,201 American League games. His lifetime average is .309.

County Stadium, home of the Milwaukee Braves, has a seating capacity of 44,091.

Jones Gets Back Into Contention With Dykes KO

Brooklyn, March 9 (AP)—Back in the middleweight contention following his surprising tenth round technical knockout of Bobby Dykes, Ralph (Tiger) Jones today sought a shot at Rocky Castellani, Joey Giardello or Gil Turner.

The compact, aggressive Yonkers, N. Y., Negro signalized his return to action after an injury-enforced six months with his thrilling come-from-behind TKO in 2:12 of the final round of the telecast bouts at Eastern Parkway arena last night. The winner was a 2-1 underdog.

Trailing on the scorecards of two of the three officials, the 25-year-old Jones dropped the fifth-ranking middleweight contender from Miami twice with right hands to the jaw in the final frame. Lanky Bobby took nine both times but referee Jack Watron halted the bout after the last one. Dykes was out on his feet.

10th Decides Fight

The ever-pressing, bobbing and weaving Jones won the first two rounds but lost the next five as the sharp and fast punching Dykes connected with at least a hundred solid blows. The Tiger tore open a cut over Dykes' left eye in the eighth to win that round and the ninth.

The tenth meant the fight. Dykes said the blood trickling over his eye prevented him from seeing the final two rights. It was only the second time that Dykes had been stopped in 110 pro fights. Johnny Bratton flattened him in one three years ago. Jones weighed 157 and Dykes 159.

Jones has been sidelined since last August. He had an operation on a broken right thumb and on his right elbow to have chips removed.

Gavilan Relaxes After Easy Win

Boston, March 9 (AP)—Welterweight king Kid Gavilan relaxed today after whipping Italy's Livio Minelli in a warmup bout before his April 2 crack at Bobo Olson's middleweight boxing crown.

The Cuban Keed, weighing 153½ to Minelli's 152¼, floored Minelli twice in the second round with sizzling left hooks to the head, but cut back the throttle the rest of the way in the non-title 10-rounder last night.

"I needed the workout more than the knockout," Gavilan explained in the dressing room.

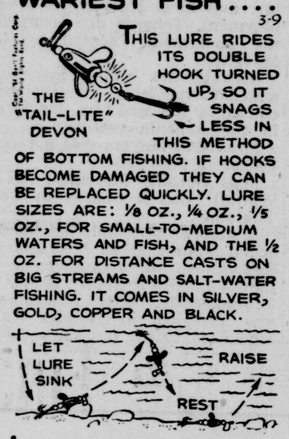

He won every round on most cards at ringside.

The Chicago Cubs, only team in the majors to shun night games at home, played in 37 arc contests on the road, tops in the National League.

Appropriate movies will be shown and refreshments will be served. Program director is Carlton B. King.

St. Mary's Girls Advance In CYO With 33-30 Win

Play Next Week For Upstate Title

St. Mary's Girls advanced to the finals of the Catholic Youth Organization girl's metropolitan playoffs in the upstate finals Saturday with a 33 to 30 victory over St. Joachim's of Beacon in a game played at the Mt. Carmel gym in Poughkeepsie.

Only two players for St. Mary's hit the scoring column—Joan Erena and Audrey Cherney—but this was enough to register the vital win.

Joan Erena led both clubs in scoring with 22 points while Audrey Cherney bucketed 11.

The local girl's quintet will meet Rockland, the Orange county champions, next Saturday, March 13, at St. Anthony's Gym in Nanuet for the upstate championship.

The winner of this game will meet the New York city champions for the Archdiocesan title Thursday, March 18, at All Hallows gym in the Bronx.

St. Joachim's took an early lead in Saturday's game and led by 18 to 15 at the halftime buzzer.

With Joan Erena and Audrey Cherney beginning to click, however, St. Mary's came from behind to register the victory.

Boston Slugger Will Undergo Surgery Today

Cambridge, Mass., March 9 (AP)—Boston Red Sox slugger Ted Williams will undergo an operation on his broken collarbone today that may hasten his return to baseball. He may be in the lineup early in May.

Attending physicians emphasized yesterday that their major concern is not to rush the $100,000-a-year star back into action, but rather to relieve the considerable pain he is in because of imperfect healing.

The 35-year-old Williams was injured in a fall March 1 as he tried to catch a sinking line drive at the team's Sarasota, Fla., camp.

X-rays taken yesterday disclosed "marked displacement of small sections of the broken left collarbone." The team of three doctors also said two small bits of bone "had been broken off, or chipped."

Johnny Pesky of the Detroit Tigers has played 1,201 American League games. His lifetime average is .309.

Jones Gets Back Into Contention With Dykes KO

Brooklyn, March 9 (AP)—Back in the middleweight contention following his surprising tenth round technical knockout of Bobby Dykes, Ralph (Tiger) Jones today sought a shot at Rocky Castellani, Joey Giardello or Gil Turner.

The compact, aggressive Yonkers, N. Y., Negro signalized his return to action after an injury-enforced six months with his thrilling come-from-behind TKO in 2:12 of the final round of the telecast bouts at Eastern Parkway arena last night. The winner was a 2-1 underdog.

Trailing on the scorecards of two of the three officials, the 25-year-old Jones dropped the fifth-ranking middleweight contender from Miami twice with right hands to the jaw in the final frame. Lanky Bobby took nine both times but referee Jack Watron halted the bout after the last one. Dykes was out on his feet.

10th Decides Fight

The ever-pressing, bobbing and weaving Jones won the first two rounds but lost the next five as the sharp and fast punching Dykes connected with at least a hundred solid blows. The Tiger tore open a cut over Dykes' left eye in the eighth to win that round and the ninth.

The tenth meant the fight. Dykes said the blood trickling over his eye prevented him from seeing the final two rights. It was only the second time that Dykes had been stopped in 110 pro fights. Johnny Bratton flattened him in one three years ago. Jones weighed 157 and Dykes 159.

Jones has been sidelined since last August. He had an operation on a broken right thumb and on his right elbow to have chips removed.

Gavilan Relaxes After Easy Win

Boston, March 9 (AP)—Welterweight king Kid Gavilan relaxed today after whipping Italy's Livio Minelli in a warmup bout before his April 2 crack at Bobo Olson's middleweight boxing crown.

The Cuban Keed, weighing 153½ to Minelli's 152¼, floored Minelli twice in the second round with sizzling left hooks to the head, but cut back the throttle the rest of the way in the non-title 10-rounder last night.

"I needed the workout more than the knockout," Gavilan explained in the dressing room.

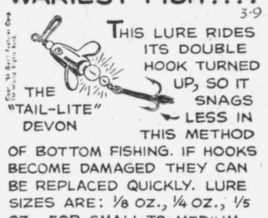

He won every round on most cards at ringside.

The Chicago Cubs, only team in the majors to shun night games at home, played in 37 arc contests on the road, tops in the National League.

St. Mary's Girls Advance In CYO With 33-30 Win

Play Next Week For Upstate Title

St. Mary's Girls advanced to the finals of the Catholic Youth Organization girl's metropolitan playoffs in the upstate finals Saturday with a 33 to 30 victory over St. Joachim's of Beacon in a game played at the Mt. Carmel gym in Poughkeepsie.

Only two players for St. Mary's hit the scoring column—Joan Erena and Audrey Cherney—but this was enough to register the vital win.

Joan Erena led both clubs in scoring with 22 points while Audrey Cherney bucketed 11.

The local girl's quintet will meet Rockland, the Orange county champions, next Saturday, March 13, at St. Anthony's Gym in Nanuet for the upstate championship.

The winner of this game will meet the New York city champions for the Archdiocesan title Thursday, March 18, at All Hallows gym in the Bronx.

St. Joachim's took an early lead in Saturday's game and led by 18 to 15 at the halftime buzzer.

With Joan Erena and Audrey Cherney beginning to click, however, St. Mary's came from behind to register the victory.

Baltimore Orioles Rip Up Grapefruit League

Thump Hapless Giants For Third Victory

The Baltimore Orioles, major league baseball's newest babies, aren't behaving a bit like the St. Louis Browns and they're making Manager Jimmy Dykes' prediction —"we're gonna surprise a lot of people"—look mighty good.

With 17 players left over from the hapless Brownies, a flock of minor league hopefuls and some "rehabilitation" cases obtained from the Philadelphia Athletics, the Orioles are tearing into Grapefruit League pitching so far.

Yesterday, they picked up their third straight victory of the spring by thumping four New York Giant pitchers for 18 hits and a 13-8 triumph.

Don Larsen, a seven-game winner with the Browns in 1953, pitched the first three innings and smashed a three-run homer before he gave way to rookie lefthander Clarence Post. Outfielder Don Lenhardt hit a pinch-hit home run for Baltimore, giving him six safeties in six tries this year.

Shooting for Fifth

"The experts who have been picking us for the cellar are going to be fooled," Dykes has said time and again since he took over last November. "We're shooting for fifth place and with some luck we might make it."

Meanwhile, Eddie Joost's Athletics weren't doing too badly either. They scored their second straight exhibition triumph downing the Milwaukee Braves 6-4. Veteran Alex Kellner and first-year man Courtney Stemps held the Braves to one hit in the first six innings and catcher Jim Robertson delivered the big blow, a bases-clearing double in the eighth inning.

At Fort Pierce, Fla., rookie third baseman George Freese drove out a home run and a double, good for four runs batted in, as the Pittsburgh Pirates whipped the Detroit Tigers 7-3. Dale Coogan, a service returnee, delivered a two-run triple for the Bucs.

The Cleveland Indians increased their run-scoring total to 47 for three games, by walloping the Cubs 15-9. Rudy Regaldo, a second baseman still on the Tribe's Indianapolis roster, connected for two home runs in Cleveland's 18-hit attack. Regaldo has made nine hits in 16 times at bat this spring.

Phillies Whip Cards

Third baseman Willie Jones' line double in the sixth inning gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 3-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals at Clearwater, Fla. Bob Greenwood, who hurled for Baltimore in the International League last was the winner.

Carlos Paula, the first Negro ever to break into the Washington lineup, garnered two hits and drove in a run, but the Senators dropped a 4-3 decision to the Chicago White Sox. Outfielder Bill Wilson knocked in the winning run with a single in the ninth.

A two-run rally in the fifth inning gave the Boston Red Sox a 2-1 triumph over the champion New York Yankees. The victory was a costly one for the bosox, however, as outfielder Jim Piersall injured his right shoulder while sliding into second base. He is expected to be out for a few days.

The Red Sox and Yankees also figured in other news.

Ted Williams, Boston's slugging outfielder who suffered a broken collarbone last week, will be operated on today. It is hoped that the surgery, which will wire together the collarbone, will be successful enough to permit Ted to play "in the vicinity of eight weeks."

At San Francisco, Yankee second baseman Billy Martin went back into the army for the second time. He expects to be stationed at the Fort Ord, Calif., training center.

In a night game, the Brooklyn Dodgers suffered their third straight setback, bowing to the Cincinnati redlegs 10-0 Don Newcome made his first start in two years for the Dodgers and was touched for three runs in the second inning. Cincy's Jim Greengrass hit the only home runs of the game.

Montreal — Fernando Cagnon, 118¾, Quebec decisioned Amada Mir, 118, Cuba (10).

BIG ORDER—Don Davidson, who stands four feet four inches in height and directs the Milwaukee Braves' publicity, hands 6-8 pitcher Gene Conley, tallest player in the majors, written order calling for 20 victories this year. (NEA)

Fights Last Night

Brooklyn—Ralph (Tiger) Jones, 157, Yonkers, N. Y., stopped Bobby Dykes, 159, Miami (10).

Boston—Kid Gavilan, 153½, Cuba, decisioned Livio Minelli, 152¼, Italy (10).

Providence, R. I.—Gerry Dreyer, 150¾, South Africa stopped Billy Andy, 151¼, Providence (5).

Trotters Can Scratch Entries on Wet Track

Orlando, Fla., March 9 (AP)—The U. S. Trotting Association parent body of harness racing, adopted a new rule yesterday to give relief to horsemen who heretofore have not been allowed to scratch their entries when they consider a wet track unsafe.

The rule provides that when the weather is bad a committee made up of the presiding judge, a representative of the horsemen and an agent of the track will consider postponement. If all three decide it is safe to race, the program goes on. If the vote is not unanimous, a horseman may scratch his entry after posting 10 per cent of the purse. Later, USTA district boards will decide whether the money should be returned to the horseman or retained as a fine.

The association, concluding its winter meeting, reelected Lawrence B. Sheppard of Hanover, Pa., to a four-year term as president. Don R. Millar of Columbus, Ohio, was renamed executive vice president for two years and all other officers were reelected for one year.

NCAA Games To Weed Out 'Weaklings'

New York, March 9 (AP)—With the exception of the Southeastern Conference and Ivy League which wound up in a dead heat, all the conference basketball races were over today and the NCAA postseason tournament was ready to get down to the serious business of weeding out the weaklings.

Games are scheduled at four sites tonight—Fort Wayne, Nashville, Peoria, Ill., and Corvallis, Ore. The game in Nashville will be a playoff for the Southeastern Conference championship between Kentucky, the only major undefeated team in the nation, and Louisiana State.

Wildcats Favored

The Wildcats, No. 1 in the weekly Associated Press poll, are rated the favorites to crash through to one of the finalist spots. Indiana, the Big 10 champion and defending NCAA titleholder, is the other choice for the windup at Kansas City on March 20.

But the other schools vieing for spots in the regional finals will have their own troubles tonight.

Here's how they line up:

At Fort Wayne—Notre Dame vs Loyola of the South and Toledo vs Penn State.

At Peoria—Bradley vs Oklahoma City.

At Corvallis—Idaho State vs Seattle and Texas Tech vs Santa Clara.

Meanwhile, two leagues were deadlocked, the standoffs in two others were broken and La Salle, Navy and North Carolina State won first round games in last night's action. Princeton pulled even with Cornell in the Ivy League with a 48-44 victory over the Big Red in Tigertown. They will play off for the title tonight in Philadelphia.

Wins Coast Crown

Southern California won the Pacific Coast crown with a 48-45 conquest of Oregon State and Rice took the Southwest Conference championship by eking out a 72-71 victory over Texas. Both games settled best-of-three playoffs of races that ended in ties. Rice won in two games, USC in three.

Princeton had to fight off a desperate last ditch rally by Cornell to hang up its ninth straight victory and 13th in its last 14 games. The Tigers came all the way from seventh place in the league standings to attain the deadlock.

Southern Cal staged a dramatic uphill fight to win its game from Oregon State and won the game in the closing minutes on two sensational shots by Roy Irvin.

Jim Beavers dropped in a rebound in the last second to give Rice its pulsating victory over Texas.

Navy Whips Connecticut

At Buffalo, Navy defeated Connecticut 85-80 and La Salle tripped Fordham in overtime 76-74 in preliminary round games of the NCAA tournament. At Durham, N. C., North Carolina State defeated George Washington 75-73. La Salle will play North Carolina State and Navy will go against the Ivy League winner in the regionals in Philadelphia Friday.

In the National Invitation tournament last night at Madison Square Garden, Western Kentucky stopped Bowling Green 95-81 and Niagara turned back Dayton 77-74 despite Bill Uhl, who scored 33 points for the losers. Western and Niagara now are in the semi-finals. St. Francis of Loretto, Pa., won a first-round game from Brigham Young 81-68.

Tonight's action pairs top-seeded Duquesne and St. Francis of Pa., and Holy Cross and St. Francis of Brooklyn.

The small college tournament at Kansas City winds up its first round play with 16 teams still shooting for the championship.

Howie Takes Fourth Hockey Point Title

Montreal, March 9 (AP)—Gordie Howe, Detroit's flashy right winger had his fourth straight National Hockey League scoring title all but wrapped up today and Red Wing goalie Terry Sawchuk was leading in the race for the coveted Vezina Trophy.

Howe picked up a goal and two assists in games last week and boosted his point total to 71. Maurice (The Rocket) Richard of Montreal is second with 61 points, including 35 goals, the circuit's highest output.

Sawchuk, the defending Vezina holder, has a goals-against average of 1.73 per game compared to 1.78 for Harry Lumley of the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Warrior Center Expected to Cop Scoring Honors

New York, March 9 (AP) — Neil Johnston of the Philadelphia Warriors is a cinch to capture the National Basketball Association scoring title for the second straight year.

The lanky center has a 343 point edge over easy Ed Macauley of the Boston Celtics. Johnston has collected 1,625 points for a 24.3 percentage through Sunday's games.

Macauley, who has a total of 1,282, enhanced his chances of breaking the all-time field goal accuracy record of 47.8 set by Alex Groza of Indianapolis in 1950, has a percentage of 48.7.

Third spot in the scoring derby goes to Boston's Bob Cousy with 1,275, who leads in the assist department with 486.

In games played last night, the Milwaukee Hawks swept both ends of a doubleheader from the Baltimore Bullets, winning the first game 64-54 and the second 65-54. It was the first twin bill of its kind in NBA history.

Opening Bout Is Listed for Mat Card Wednesday

Sandor Kovacs, Hungarian star who now makes his home in Quincy, Mass., and Harry Lewis, of Brooklyn, have been signed for the opening bout of Wednesday night's wrestling card at municipal auditorium.

Kovacs, a handsome fellow, is one of the most scientific grapplers in the business, and he'll need all his skill against Lewis, who is strong, rough and willing.

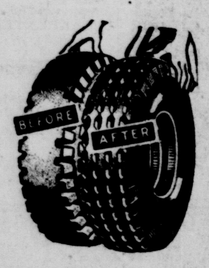

Argentine Rocca, spectacular South American, is to take on Herb Larson, a newcomer from Canada in the two out of three fall feature.

Also for two out of three falls will be Don Lewin, Buffalo, against Larry Kasaboski, North Bay, Ont., in the semi-final.

Carlos Paula, the first Negro ever to break into the Washington lineup, garnered two hits and drove in a run, but the Senators dropped a 4-3 decision to the Chicago White Sox. Outfielder Bill Wilson knocked in the winning run with a single in the ninth.

A two-run rally in the fifth inning gave the Boston Red Sox a 2-1 triumph over the champion New York Yankees. The victory was a costly one for the bosox, however, as outfielder Jim Piersall injured his right shoulder while sliding into second base. He is expected to be out for a few days.

The Red Sox and Yankees also figured in other news.

Ted Williams, Boston's slugging outfielder who suffered a broken collarbone last week, will be operated on today. It is hoped that the surgery, which will wire together the collarbone, will be successful enough to permit Ted to play "in the vicinity of eight weeks."

At San Francisco, Yankee second baseman Billy Martin went back into the army for the second time. He expects to be stationed at the Fort Ord, Calif., training center.

In a night game, the Brooklyn Dodgers suffered their third straight setback, bowing to the Cincinnati redlegs 10-0 Don Newcome made his first start in two years for the Dodgers and was touched for three runs in the second inning. Cincy's Jim Greengrass hit the only home runs of the game.

BIG ORDER—Don Davidson, who stands four feet four inches in height and directs the Milwaukee Braves' publicity, hands 6-8 pitcher Gene Conley, tallest player in the majors, written order calling for 20 victories this year. (NEA)

Trotters Can Scratch Entries on Wet Track

Orlando, Fla., March 9 (AP)—The U. S. Trotting Association parent body of harness racing, adopted a new rule yesterday to give relief to horsemen who heretofore have not been allowed to scratch their entries when they consider a wet track unsafe.

The rule provides that when the weather is bad a committee made up of the presiding judge, a representative of the horsemen and an agent of the track will consider postponement. If all three decide it is safe to race, the program goes on. If the vote is not unanimous, a horseman may scratch his entry after posting 10 per cent of the purse. Later, USTA district boards will decide whether the money should be returned to the horseman or retained as a fine.

The association, concluding its winter meeting, reelected Lawrence B. Sheppard of Hanover, Pa., to a four-year term as president. Don R. Millar of Columbus, Ohio, was renamed executive vice president for two years and all other officers were reelected for one year.

Bowling Roundup

Ward DuBois led last week's Electrol League firing at the Bowlodrome with sticks of 191-164-190 for 545.

Others hitting 500 were Mike Milano with 510; Louis Petromale 224-549; Bill Beckert 504; and John Howard 513.

Bill Short had a near-miss with 499 while Chet Tobias socked 493; Dick Waltman 498; Charlie Brooks 484 and John Brady 482.

Team results:

Milling 3, Receiving 0; Factory Office (2), Turrets No. 2 (1); Inspection (3), Turrets No. 1 (0); Production Control 2, Dispatch 1; Tool Room 2, Maintenance 1.

A. D. Novelty and the SRS Home are tied for honors in the Rosendale News League. Both clubs have won 46 and dropped 32. The Novelty combine won three last week from Tillson Machinery while the SRS Home copped the odd game from Conlin's Oil.

Team results:

Beach Farms 2, Alpine 1; SRS Home 2, Conlin's Oil 1; Frederick's Garage 2, S & E Farms 1; Kripplebush Store 3, Chalet 0; A. D. Novelty 3, Tillson Machinery 0; Sportsmen's Park 3, Rosendale News 0.

NCAA Games To Weed Out 'Weaklings'

New York, March 9 (AP)—With the exception of the Southeastern Conference and Ivy League which wound up in a dead heat, all the conference basketball races were over today and the NCAA postseason tournament was ready to get down to the serious business of weeding out the weaklings.

Games are scheduled at four sites tonight—Fort Wayne, Nashville, Peoria, Ill., and Corvallis, Ore. The game in Nashville will be a playoff for the Southeastern Conference championship between Kentucky, the only major undefeated team in the nation, and Louisiana State.

Wildcats Favored

The Wildcats, No. 1 in the weekly Associated Press poll, are rated the favorites to crash through to one of the finalist spots. Indiana, the Big 10 champion and defending NCAA titleholder, is the other choice for the windup at Kansas City on March 20.

But the other schools vieing for spots in the regional finals will have their own troubles tonight.

Here's how they line up:

At Fort Wayne—Notre Dame vs Loyola of the South and Toledo vs Penn State.

At Peoria—Bradley vs Oklahoma City.

At Corvallis—Idaho State vs Seattle and Texas Tech vs Santa Clara.

Meanwhile, two leagues were deadlocked, the standoffs in two others were broken and La Salle, Navy and North Carolina State won first round games in last night's action. Princeton pulled even with Cornell in the Ivy League with a 48-44 victory over the Big Red in Tigertown. They will play off for the title tonight in Philadelphia.

Wins Coast Crown

Southern California won the Pacific Coast crown with a 48-45 conquest of Oregon State and Rice took the Southwest Conference championship by eking out a 72-71 victory over Texas. Both games settled best-of-three playoffs of races that ended in ties. Rice won in two games, USC in three.

Princeton had to fight off a desperate last ditch rally by Cornell to hang up its ninth straight victory and 13th in its last 14 games. The Tigers came all the way from seventh place in the league standings to attain the deadlock.

Southern Cal staged a dramatic uphill fight to win its game from Oregon State and won the game in the closing minutes on two sensational shots by Roy Irvin.

Jim Beavers dropped in a rebound in the last second to give Rice its pulsating victory over Texas.

Navy Whips Connecticut

At Buffalo, Navy defeated Connecticut 85-80 and La Salle tripped Fordham in overtime 76-74 in preliminary round games of the NCAA tournament. At Durham, N. C., North Carolina State defeated George Washington 75-73. La Salle will play North Carolina State and Navy will go against the Ivy League winner in the regionals in Philadelphia Friday.

In the National Invitation tournament last night at Madison Square Garden, Western Kentucky stopped Bowling Green 95-81 and Niagara turned back Dayton 77-74 despite Bill Uhl, who scored 33 points for the losers. Western and Niagara now are in the semi-finals. St. Francis of Loretto, Pa., won a first-round game from Brigham Young 81-68.

Tonight's action pairs topseeded Duquesne and St. Francis of Pa., and Holy Cross and St. Francis of Brooklyn.

The small college tournament at Kansas City winds up its first round play with 16 teams still shooting for the championship.

Howie Takes Fourth Hockey Point Title

Montreal, March 9 (AP)—Gordie Howe, Detroit's flashy right winger had his fourth straight National Hockey League scoring title all but wrapped up today and Red Wing goalie Terry Sawchuk was leading in the race for the coveted Vezina Trophy.

Howe picked up a goal and two assists in games last week and boosted his point total to 71. Maurice (The Rocket) Richard of Montreal is second with 61 points, including 35 goals, the circuit's highest output.

Sawchuk, the defending Vezina holder, has a goals-against average of 1.73 per game compared to 1.78 for Harry Lumley of the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Warrior Center Expected to Cop Scoring Honors

New York, March 9 (AP) — Neil Johnston of the Philadelphia Warriors is a cinch to capture the National Basketball Association scoring title for the second straight year.

The lanky center has a 343 point edge over easy Ed Macauley of the Boston Celtics. Johnston has collected 1,625 points for a 24.3 percentage through Sunday's games.

Macauley, who has a total of 1,282, enhanced his chances of breaking the all-time field goal accuracy record of 47.8 set by Alex Groza of Indianapolis in 1950, has a percentage of 48.7.

Third spot in the scoring derby goes to Boston's Bob Cousy with 1,275, who leads in the assist department with 486.

In games played last night, the Milwaukee Hawks swept both ends of a doubleheader from the Baltimore Bullets, winning the first game 64-54 and the second 65-54. It was the first twin bill of its kind in NBA history.

Opening Bout Is Listed for Mat Card Wednesday

Sandor Kovacs, Hungarian star who now makes his home in Quincy, Mass., and Harry Lewis, of Brooklyn, have been signed for the opening bout of Wednesday night's wrestling card at municipal auditorium.

Kovacs, a handsome fellow, is one of the most scientific grapplers in the business, and he'll need all his skill against Lewis, who is strong, rough and willing.

Argentine Rocca, spectacular South American, is to take on Herb Larson, a newcomer from Canada in the two out of three fall feature.

Also for two out of three falls will be Don Lewin, Buffalo, against Larry Kasaboski, North Bay, Ont., in the semi-final.

Coach Elated Over Western Kentucky Win

New York, March 9 (AP)—"This is the eighth time I've come to New York for this tournament and this time we're going to go all the way."

That was veteran coach Ed Diddle talking about his fleet-footed, talented Western Kentucky basketball team had raced to a 95-81 victory over Bowling Green last night in its first appearance in the 1954 National Invitation Tournament.

"This is the first time we've come up and played a real good game right off the bat," Diddle said while his players whooped it up in the dressing room as though they had just won the final game instead of only a quarterfinal.

The Hilltoppers, seeded second in the tournament and ranked fourth in the country, meet the winner of tonight's Holy Cross-St. Francis of Brooklyn game in the semi-finals Thursday.

Niagara Advances

Fourth-ranked Niagara also advanced to the semi-finals last night as its team play offset a 33-point performance by Dayton's Bill Uhl for a 77-74 victory. Niagara will play the winner of tonight's other game between Duquesne, top seeded in the tournament and third-ranked nationally, and little St. Francis of Loretto, Pa.

The Pennsylvania St. Francis made its NIT—and Madison Square Garden—debut with an 81-68 victory over Brigham Young in the first game of last night's triple-header.

Western Kentucky, which could do nothing right in losing its only NIT game to Duquesne a year ago could do almost nothing wrong in a frantic first half which ended with the Hilltoppers ahead by 59-53, a Garden record for first half scoring. Western hit on 21 of 50 field goal attempts, while Bowling Green, bowing out of the tourney for the sixth year, con-

Arizon produced 394,279 tons of copper valued at 227 million dollars in 1953.

ELLENVILLE NEWS

Rev. Hiatt to Retire As St. John's Rector

Ellenville, March 9—The Rev. George R. Hiatt, dean of the Ellenville clergy, will retire about May 1, after serving for 26 years as rector of St. John's Memorial Episcopal Church, he informed his congregation at the morning service February 28.

Mr. Hiatt, who was generally known as an untiring worker for peace and harmony, not only for those of his church, but for the entire community as well, announced his pastoral retirement with reluctance, and it was with equal reluctance that it was accepted by his parishoners, many of whom have never known other pastor than he.

Feted Last May

Mr. Hiatt, who was feted by the community upon his silver jubilee last May, explained that at his age, 69, he does not feel that he is now able to do the work required by the parish, pointing out that some of his duties had become a real hardship.

The retiring minister explained that he is planning to move to the Episcopal Home for elderly ministers and laymen in New York, located opposite the Episcopal Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

It will probably be several months after his retirement May 1 before his sucessor will be chosen by the congregation. The pulpit during that period will be filled by candidates and supply ministers.

During Mr. Hiatt's rectorship here he has performed almost 300 baptisms, presented over 250 persons in classes to the bishop for confirmation, solemnized more than 100 marriages and officiated at more than 350 funerals, more than 200 for others than communicant members of St. John's.

He has acted as chaplain for more than 20 years for both the Wawarsing Masonic Lodge and the Pioneer Engine Company.

Ordained in 1918

Mr. Hiatt received his theological training at Virginia Seminary, near Alexandria, Va., and was ordained deacon June 26, 1918, in Grace Cathedral, Topeka, Kans., by the Rt. Rev. James Wise, bishop of the Diocese of Kansas. He was ordained priest by the same bishop on January 19, 1919.

From June, 1918, to October, 1920, he concurrently served three parishes in the Diocese of Kansas. The Church of the Good Shepherd at Topeka; St. Luke's Church at Wamego and Christ's Hospital at Topeka as chaplain. In the autumn of 1920 he became vicar of Grace Church, City Island, the Bronx, where he served for two years. During that time he frequently assisted the rector of Christ Church, Pelham Manor. In 1922 Father Hiatt became priest in charge of St. Peter's Church, the Bronx. He was later made rector and served that parish for six years.

In 1926 Mr. Hiatt was called by the local vestry, with the approval of Bishop Manning, to become the rector of St. John's Memorial Church, Ellenville.

Spoor Accepts Call To Methodist Church

Ellenville, March 9—The Rev. Ralph Spoor, Jr., pastor of Trinity Church at Beacon for the past five years, will become the new minister of the Ellenville Methodist Church it was announced this week.

Mr. Spoor, who is married and has two pre-school age children, is expected to take over the local charge March 15. He succeeds the Rev. Charles Garrett who resigned several weeks ago to take over a pastorate in his native state of Texas.

Mummies Are Found

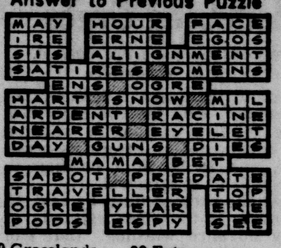

Tampico, Mexico, March 9 (AP)—Two Canadian archaeologists, Dr. and Mrs. Richard S. MacNeish, have reported finding mummies 2,000 years old and other ancient relics ranging from possibly 5,000 years ago in rugged, isolated Hell's Canyon in northeastern Mexico. The rare find was uncovered in three caves which the man-and-wife team said they believed were part of the ruins of an old Indian civilization. Hell's Canyon is in the foothills of the Sierra Madre Orientale Mountain range near Ocampo, in Tamaulipas state.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Nixon Will Reply

instead to give the Republican Party a 30-minute rebuttal period next Saturday night.

"They will grant me time or learn what the law is," McCarthy said in strongly hinting he might take the matter to the Federal Communications Commission (FCC). A new member of the FCC—which regulates radio-TV operations—is Robert E. Lee, a friend of the Wisconsin senator.

Addressing a big Democratic rally in Miami, Fla., last Saturday night, Stevenson aimed much of his attack at McCarthy, whom he accused of seeking to lead the Republican Party to a "malign and fatal totalitarianisms." The titular leader of the Democrats also said the Republicans are divided "half McCarthy and half Eisenhower."

Ahead of McCarthy

Chairman Leonard W. Hall of the Republican National Committee, claiming that Stevenson had "impugned the Eisenhower Administration," got in ahead of McCarthy yesterday with a formal bid for equal radio and TV time to reply. He stressed that Stevenson spoke as leader of the Democratic Party.

Thus, Hall wired both big networks that "this is not a matter for personal rebuttal by any individual"—an apparent reference to McCarthy, with whom Hall differed last week over the senator's conduct of an investigation of army handling of alleged Communists in its ranks.

High administration sources said last night Eisenhower himself made the suggestion that the Republican National Committee seek free radio-TV time to answer Stevenson and that it was the President who chose Nixon to speak for the party. The President, it was reported, phoned the idea to Hall who already had moved in the same direction.

To Get Him Out

One informed source indicated that the strategy was "to get McCarthy out of the headlines and get our story across."

It was understood in this connection that Hall did not contact McCarthy before asking the networks for rebuttal opportunity.

McCarthy was flying to New York after a brief Miami vacation when the committee announced that Nixon would be the GOP's spokesman. Learning of this when he landed, McCarthy voiced no quarrel with Hall's move or with the selection of Nixon to present the party's case.

McCarthy said Hall was "entirely correct" in regarding the Stevenson speech as an attack on the GOP. McCarthy, in fact, called it an "intemperate attack." But McCarthy added:

". . . Mr. Nixon is speaking for the party. I'm speaking for myself."

Commission sources said last night FCC's basic law requires that candidates for public office be given "equal opportunities" on the air. But this would not seem to cover the present situation since no one involved is an active candidate.

However, these sources also said the commission has tried in the past to see to it that broadcasters treated all controversial issues fairly.

Has No Authority

They pointed out that FCC has no authority to order a station off the air forthwith. It could, however, take non-compliance into consideration when a station applies for license renewal.

In announcing that it was honoring Hall's request, CBS said it got the GOP chairman's bid first and would not grant McCarthy the free time he asked because "time already has been given to the GOP to answer Stevenson."

NBC said it would give "commensurate time" to the party, not McCarthy. Both networks alloted the GOP the 10:30-11 p. m., EST, period next Saturday—the same as that filled by Stevenson last week.

If McCarthy is given free time to answer Stevenson, it was learned authoritatively today, he plans for the first time to submit, in advance his prepared remarks to the White House and GOP National Committee leaders for their suggestions.

On Capitol Hill, two Republican members of McCarthy's Senate Investigating Committee endorsed the selection by the Republican National Committee of a party spokesman to carry the GOP story to the nation.

Sen. Mundt (R-S.D.) said it "makes sense" to follow this procedure. Mundt called Stevenson's speech a "wholesale attack on the party" and he added that the GOP "shouldn't just let whoever gets to the telegraph first" make the official reply. Mundt was interviewed before Nixon was named to speak for the party.

Sen. Potter (R-Mich.) applauded the selection of Nixon to handle the chore. He said he felt the party's official reply should come from somebody high in the administration.

Fish Claims . . .

Long Island, a plant owned by the Old Country Assn.

The commission previously had recommended that the Saratoga Harness Racing Assn., Inc., be given an unconditional license to conduct races this year.

Public Probe

The clearances followed a week-long public probe of state harness racing affairs in which there was testimony that numerous individuals, some high ranking Republicans, raked in huge profits from track investments.

The commission makes its recommendations to State Harness Racing Commissioner George P. Monaghan, former New York police commissioner who was made czar of the harness industry as the result of track scandals.

Although suggesting that the four additional racing groups be given permits for this year, the Moreland Commission told Monaghan:

"In our opinion, it is of prime importance in the public interest that the inter-corporate relations and the inter-locking directorates among Old Country Trotting Assn., Inc., Nassau Trotting Assn., Inc., Yonkers Trotting Assn., Inc., and Algam Corp. be untangled and the empire which has been built up be dissolved."

The commission's views were presented in an 11-page report prepared by Chairman Bruce Bromley.

It represented something of a crackdown on the New York area tracks, not only as to the intertwined relationships of the corporate groups and individuals but also as to big fees paid some officers.

The commission among other things asserted that an agreement between Old Country and Attorney George Morton Levy, under which the attorney received about two million dollars in legal fees since 1941, must be cancelled.

In the future, said the commission, fees "must be measured by the reasonable value of his services."

Coach Elated Over Western Kentucky Win

New York, March 9 (AP)—"This is the eighth time I've come to New York for this tournament and this time we're going to go all the way."

That was veteran coach Ed Diddle talking about his fleet-footed, talented Western Kentucky basketball team had raced to a 95-81 victory over Bowling Green last night in its first appearance in the 1954 National Invitation Tournament.

"This is the first time we've come up and played a real good game right off the bat," Diddle said while his players whooped it up in the dressing room as though they had just won the final game instead of only a quarterfinal.

The Hilltoppers, seeded second in the tournament and ranked fourth in the country, meet the winner of tonight's Holy Cross-St. Francis of Brooklyn game in the semi-finals Thursday.

Niagara Advances

Fourth-ranked Niagara also advanced to the semi-finals last night as its team play offset a 33-point performance by Dayton's Bill Uhl for a 77-74 victory. Niagara will play the winner of tonight's other game between Duquesne, top seeded in the tournament and third-ranked nationally, and little St. Francis of Loretto, Pa.

The Pennsylvania St. Francis made its NIT—and Madison Square Garden—debut with an 81-68 victory over Brigham Young in the first game of last night's triple-header.

Western Kentucky, which could do nothing right in losing its only NIT game to Duquesne a year ago could do almost nothing wrong in a frantic first half which ended with the Hilltoppers ahead by 59-53, a Garden record for first half scoring. Western hit on 21 of 50 field goal attempts, while Bowling Green, bowing out of the tourney for the sixth year, con-

Arizon produced 394,279 tons of copper valued at 227 million dollars in 1953.

ELLENVILLE NEWS

Rev. Hiatt to Retire As St. John's Rector

Ellenville, March 9—The Rev. George R. Hiatt, dean of the Ellenville clergy, will retire about May 1, after serving for 26 years as rector of St. John's Memorial Episcopal Church, he informed his congregation at the morning service February 28.

Mr. Hiatt, who was generally known as an untiring worker for peace and harmony, not only for those of his church, but for the entire community as well, announced his pastoral retirement with reluctance, and it was with equal reluctance that it was accepted by his parishoners, many of whom have never known other pastor than he.

Feted Last May

Mr. Hiatt, who was feted by the community upon his silver jubilee last May, explained that at his age, 69, he does not feel that he is now able to do the work required by the parish, pointing out that some of his duties had become a real hardship.

The retiring minister explained that he is planning to move to the Episcopal Home for elderly ministers and laymen in New York, located opposite the Episcopal Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

It will probably be several months after his retirement May 1 before his sucessor will be chosen by the congregation. The pulpit during that period will be filled by candidates and supply ministers.

During Mr. Hiatt's rectorship here he has performed almost 300 baptisms, presented over 250 persons in classes to the bishop for confirmation, solemnized more than 100 marriages and officiated at more than 350 funerals, more than 200 for others than communicant members of St. John's.

He has acted as chaplain for more than 20 years for both the Wawarsing Masonic Lodge and the Pioneer Engine Company.

Ordained in 1918

Mr. Hiatt received his theological training at Virginia Seminary, near Alexandria, Va., and was ordained deacon June 26, 1918, in Grace Cathedral, Topeka, Kans., by the Rt. Rev. James Wise, bishop of the Diocese of Kansas. He was ordained priest by the same bishop on January 19, 1919.

From June, 1918, to October, 1920, he concurrently served three parishes in the Diocese of Kansas. The Church of the Good Shepherd at Topeka; St. Luke's Church at Wamego and Christ's Hospital at Topeka as chaplain. In the autumn of 1920 he became vicar of Grace Church, City Island, the Bronx, where he served for two years. During that time he frequently assisted the rector of Christ Church, Pelham Manor. In 1922 Father Hiatt became priest in charge of St. Peter's Church, the Bronx. He was later made rector and served that parish for six years.

In 1926 Mr. Hiatt was called by the local vestry, with the approval of Bishop Manning, to become the rector of St. John's Memorial Church, Ellenville.

Mummies Are Found

Tampico, Mexico, March 9 (AP)—Two Canadian archaeologists, Dr. and Mrs. Richard S. MacNeish, have reported finding mummies 2,000 years old and other ancient relics ranging from possibly 5,000 years ago in rugged, isolated Hell's Canyon in northeastern Mexico. The rare find was uncovered in three caves which the man-and-wife team said they believed were part of the ruins of an old Indian civilization. Hell's Canyon is in the foothills of the Sierra Madre Orientale Mountain range near Ocampo, in Tamaulipas state.

Nixon Will Reply

instead to give the Republican Party a 30-minute rebuttal period next Saturday night.

"They will grant me time or learn what the law is," McCarthy said in strongly hinting he might take the matter to the Federal Communications Commission (FCC). A new member of the FCC—which regulates radio-TV operations—is Robert E. Lee, a friend of the Wisconsin senator.

Addressing a big Democratic rally in Miami, Fla., last Saturday night, Stevenson aimed much of his attack at McCarthy, whom he accused of seeking to lead the Republican Party to a "malign and fatal totalitarianisms." The titular leader of the Democrats also said the Republicans are divided "half McCarthy and half Eisenhower."

Ahead of McCarthy

Chairman Leonard W. Hall of the Republican National Committee, claiming that Stevenson had "impugned the Eisenhower Administration," got in ahead of McCarthy yesterday with a formal bid for equal radio and TV time to reply. He stressed that Stevenson spoke as leader of the Democratic Party.

Thus, Hall wired both big networks that "this is not a matter for personal rebuttal by any individual"—an apparent reference to McCarthy, with whom Hall differed last week over the senator's conduct of an investigation of army handling of alleged Communists in its ranks.

High administration sources said last night Eisenhower himself made the suggestion that the Republican National Committee seek free radio-TV time to answer Stevenson and that it was the President who chose Nixon to speak for the party. The President, it was reported, phoned the idea to Hall who already had moved in the same direction.

To Get Him Out

One informed source indicated that the strategy was "to get McCarthy out of the headlines and get our story across."

It was understood in this connection that Hall did not contact McCarthy before asking the networks for rebuttal opportunity.

McCarthy was flying to New York after a brief Miami vacation when the committee announced that Nixon would be the GOP's spokesman. Learning of this when he landed, McCarthy voiced no quarrel with Hall's move or with the selection of Nixon to present the party's case.

McCarthy said Hall was "entirely correct" in regarding the Stevenson speech as an attack on the GOP. McCarthy, in fact, called it an "intemperate attack." But McCarthy added:

". . . Mr. Nixon is speaking for the party. I'm speaking for myself."

Commission sources said last night FCC's basic law requires that candidates for public office be given "equal opportunities" on the air. But this would not seem to cover the present situation since no one involved is an active candidate.

However, these sources also said the commission has tried in the past to see to it that broadcasters treated all controversial issues fairly.

Has No Authority

They pointed out that FCC has no authority to order a station off the air forthwith. It could, however, take non-compliance into consideration when a station applies for license renewal.

In announcing that it was honoring Hall's request, CBS said it got the GOP chairman's bid first and would not grant McCarthy the free time he asked because "time already has been given to the GOP to answer Stevenson."

NBC said it would give "commensurate time" to the party, not McCarthy. Both networks alloted the GOP the 10:30-11 p. m., EST, period next Saturday—the same as that filled by Stevenson last week.

If McCarthy is given free time to answer Stevenson, it was learned authoritatively today, he plans for the first time to submit, in advance his prepared remarks to the White House and GOP National Committee leaders for their suggestions.

On Capitol Hill, two Republican members of McCarthy's Senate Investigating Committee endorsed the selection by the Republican National Committee of a party spokesman to carry the GOP story to the nation.

Sen. Mundt (R-S.D.) said it "makes sense" to follow this procedure. Mundt called Stevenson's speech a "wholesale attack on the party" and he added that the GOP "shouldn't just let whoever gets to the telegraph first" make the official reply. Mundt was interviewed before Nixon was named to speak for the party.

Sen. Potter (R-Mich.) applauded the selection of Nixon to handle the chore. He said he felt the party's official reply should come from somebody high in the administration.

Fish Claims . . .

Long Island, a plant owned by the Old Country Assn.

The commission previously had recommended that the Saratoga Harness Racing Assn., Inc., be given an unconditional license to conduct races this year.

Public Probe

The clearances followed a week-long public probe of state harness racing affairs in which there was testimony that numerous individuals, some high ranking Republicans, raked in huge profits from track investments.

The commission makes its recommendations to State Harness Racing Commissioner George P. Monaghan, former New York police commissioner who was made czar of the harness industry as the result of track scandals.

Although suggesting that the four additional racing groups be given permits for this year, the Moreland Commission told Monaghan:

"In our opinion, it is of prime importance in the public interest that the inter-corporate relations and the inter-locking directorates among Old Country Trotting Assn., Inc., Nassau Trotting Assn., Inc., Yonkers Trotting Assn., Inc., and Algam Corp. be untangled and the empire which has been built up be dissolved."

The commission's views were presented in an 11-page report prepared by Chairman Bruce Bromley.

It represented something of a crackdown on the New York area tracks, not only as to the intertwined relationships of the corporate groups and individuals but also as to big fees paid some officers.

The commission among other things asserted that an agreement between Old Country and Attorney George Morton Levy, under which the attorney received about two million dollars in legal fees since 1941, must be cancelled.

In the future, said the commission, fees "must be measured by the reasonable value of his services."

Flemming Urges

composition forces are needed.

Two Objectives

About continental defense, Dr. Flemming said the two objectives are to give as long a warning in advance of an attack as possible, and to be in a position to strike back if attacked.

At the present time, he said, 15 minutes is the "best estimate of any advance warning" that can be assured. "Obviously this has got to be stepped up," he said.

Talking of Civil Defense, which the ODM does not administer but which it is responsible for coordinating with the Department of Defense, Dr. Flemming said, "you and I know, deep down in our hearts, that there are things we can do now which will lessen the loss of life and property if an attack should come."

Calls for CD Cooperation

Stating that we should ask ourselves if we are doing everything in our power to cooperate with Civil Defense, Flemming said, "if we do not cooperate now, we will share the responsibility for unnecessary loss of life and unnecessary destruction of property if an attack comes."

Dr. Flemming was able, through his contacts as director of defense mobilization and statutory member of the National Security Council, to give an intimate picture of President Eisenhower as a man "who has faith in his fellow human beings, and faith in God."

The Security Council meets every Thursday morning with the President presiding, and Flemming by invitation sits in the Friday morning cabinet meetings.

Eisenhower Understands

"In my judgment, the President is exceptionally well qualified by training and experience to discharge the duties of his office," Flemming said. "I am amazed by his knowledge and understanding of problems all over the world," he added.

President Eisenhower's ability to preside at meetings and draw out the opinions of others "is changing the character of the cabinet," Flemming said. For the first time in history, an agenda is drawn up for cabinet meetings and a "free and full discussion" is held on major problems, he revealed.

The President "knows how to develop a real spirit of team play," he said.

Flemming also noted that the Friday morning cabinet meetings are opened with a few moments of silent prayer, which the President has termed "the finest kind of preparation for consultation with my associates."

The connecting dining rooms were filled to capacity and tables were set up in the sunporch of the hotel for the overflow crowd that attended the banquet. Tickets had been sold out two weeks ago and there had been a waiting list of persons wanting to buy any cancellations.

One of Largest Assemblages

Raymond R. Gross, manager, said that Monday night's banquet was among the largest ever served in the Governor Clinton Hotel, ranking with those drawn by John Foster Dulles and James Farley, previous record attendances.

N. Jansen Fowler, president of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce, presided at the meeting. In his opening remarks, Fowler termed 1953 "a year of progress and a year of accomplishment" for Kingston and its chamber. Adrian Kaplan was 1953 president of the Chamber.

Noting that a delegation was present from International Business Machines Corporation, which on Nov. 9 announced it would build a new plant in the town of Ulster, Fowler said, "we could not have found a more desirable industry if we had gone the world over."

Honors Parents

In introducing the guests, Fowler said "top billing" went to the parents of the speaker, Judge and Mrs. Harry H. Flemming. "A great man certainly reflects the attributes and characteristics of his parents," Fowler said.

Others introduced were Richard O. Gruver, chairman of the banquet committee and classmate of Flemming's at Kingston High School; Albert Kurdt, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce; Frederick H. Stang, mayor of Kingston; Robert Phinney, chairman of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors; James F. Loughran, chairman of the New York State Bridge Authority; Col. Allan L. Hanstein, Ulster county Civil Defense director; Robert A. MacKinnon, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce; Clarence H. Buddenhagen, vice president of the senior chamber, and Deweese W. DeWitt, treasurer.

Past President Adrian Kaplan welcomed those present and noted that their presence "indicates continued interest and confidence in the chamber."

Dr. William C. Cain, pastor of the Rondout Presbyterian-Wurts Street Baptist Church, gave the invocation. Howard C. St. John was the song leader.

Gruver Introduces IBM Group

Banquet Chairman Gruver introduced the delegation from IBM noting that the majority of that firm's principal executives are from small communities. Paying tribute to the firm's philosophy of community and employe relations, Gruver termed the delegation "a group of small town men who have gone by the friendly route to the big time."

Guests from IBM Poughkeepsie Plant 2 with their wives were John J. Black, controller; Joseph F. Degen, plant superintendent; Robert E. Estes, assistant superintendent; Joseph R. Koury, assistant to the vice president; W. W. LaBarre, production manager; Kenneth L. Snover, assistant general manager; Paul T. Vanness, personnel manager.

Gruver, who is city editor of The Freeman, graduated with Flemming from Kingston High School in 1922, played center on the high school football team while Flemming was assistant manager of the team, and was a member of the debating squad of which Flemming was leader.

Later, Chamber President Fowler recalled that the debating team captained by Flemming captured for Kingston High School the interscholastic debating cup offered by Rutgers University. Fowler remarked that great credit was also due the team's faculty advisor, Miss Mary Noone.

Was on Freeman Staff

Fowler introduced Dr. Flemming, reviewing his career from graduation, when he joined the Freeman editorial staff for a year, went to Ohio Wesleyan University and as a debating prize won a trip to England in 1927. Fowler traced Flemming's rise in journalism, educational and governmental fields to the presidency of Ohio Wesleyan University and to top governmental posts, now serving on the National Security Council, often termed the President's "Super-Cabinet."

Proud of Kingston

Flemming, responding, said he appreciated the opportunity of coming back to Kingston, and complimented the Chamber of Commerce officers and banquet committee for an "excellent management job" in planning the annual event.

"I am always proud of the fact that I grew up in Kingston," Dr. Flemming said. "We've had a great past, but there isn't any question at all about the fact we have a great future ahead of us."

About IBM, Flemming said, "I don't know how the government would operate these days without the equipment provided by IBM."

file a sworn statement relevant to his testimony, for incorporation in the record.

3. Permit a witness or any person who believes he has been smeared at a public hearing the right to testify or file a statement in rebuttal.

4. Permit a witness to obtain a copy of his testimony given at a public hearing and his testimony at a private hearing where the testimony becomes relevant in a criminal proceeding or subsequent hearing—provided supplying of such a copy will not prejudice public safety or security.

The main bill contains a section that, in effect, would prohibit the disclosure of evidence or testimony developed at a closed-door investigation in a manner that would result in a distorted picture of the proceeding.

That section states that:

"Except in the course of a subsequent public hearing which is open to the public, no testimony or other evidence adduced at a private hearing or preliminary conference or interview" conducted before a single-member or multi-member investigating agency "shall be disseminated or made available to the public" by the body without the approval of the head, in the case of a single-member agency, or without the majority in the case of a multi-member group. Violation would constitute a misdemeanor.

Would Not Apply

The prohibition of one-man investigations would not apply, of course, to single-member state probing bodies, such as a one-man Moreland Act Commission or the state commissioner of investigation.

The bills would take effect May 1.

Charles C. Lockwood, chairman of the 12-member ethics committee, said of the proposals:

"New York state long has been in the forefront of governmental progress. It is entirely fitting, therefore, that the first general code of fair procedure for investigative agencies should be put into effect in the Empire State.

"The legislation unanimously recommended by our committee assures that the rights of the individuals will be protected without impeding the process of government in any way."

The ethics committee was created at the request of Dewey.

Coldest weather early today was in northern New England, with a low of 5 above zero at Caribou, Maine. Temperatures generally were around or above seasonal levels in most other areas.

Some displayed placards reading: "No Work Until Certification By The NLRB And A Signed Contract," "Dewey Knows What's Wrong," and "Wait Until 4 O'clock."

The Dewey reference was to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, but there was no explanation for the reference to 4 o'clock.

The demonstrators booed loudly when Peter Johnson, counsel for the rival American Federation of Labor ILA (AFL-ILA), entered the courthouse.

"You poor fools," he commented. He stopped as though about to address the demonstrators, but a policeman motioned to him to continue on into the building, and he did so.

The reference to certification concerned a waterfront election last December.

The old ILA topped the new AFL-ILA in the counted ballots, but a number of other ballots, enough to change the outcome, were challenged and have not yet been counted.

Hearings are being conducted by the NLRB to determine which union should be certified. The AFL-ILA contends that the old union intimidated voters and made a fair election impossible.

It may be months before the NLRB reaches a decision. Attorneys for both sides said today that the rest of this month probably would be required to present testimony.

Thereafter, both sides possibly would obtain up to 20 days to file briefs before hearing Examiner Arthur Leff begin preparation of a report to the full NLRB.

In today's court action, the NLRB asked criminal and civil contempt citations against the ILA and three local officers.

Goes Into Final Round

Rome, March 9 (AP)—The Chamber of Deputies went into its final round of debate today on the anti-Communist policies of Italy's new Premier Mario Scelba, aiming at a vote of confidence by tomorrow. Scelba is expected to pull through despite attacks from the extreme left and right. The vote will finalize parliamentary action on Scelba's newly-outlined program, mapped when he took the premiership just one month ago. The 52-year-old premier is expected to get a slightly larger margin of victory in the lower house than the five-vote majority his four-party center coalition won the Senate Feb. 26.

Flemming Urges

composition forces are needed.

Two Objectives

About continental defense, Dr. Flemming said the two objectives are to give as long a warning in advance of an attack as possible, and to be in a position to strike back if attacked.

At the present time, he said, 15 minutes is the "best estimate of any advance warning" that can be assured. "Obviously this has got to be stepped up," he said.

Talking of Civil Defense, which the ODM does not administer but which it is responsible for coordinating with the Department of Defense, Dr. Flemming said, "you and I know, deep down in our hearts, that there are things we can do now which will lessen the loss of life and property if an attack should come."

Calls for CD Cooperation

Stating that we should ask ourselves if we are doing everything in our power to cooperate with Civil Defense, Flemming said, "if we do not cooperate now, we will share the responsibility for unnecessary loss of life and unnecessary destruction of property if an attack comes."

Dr. Flemming was able, through his contacts as director of defense mobilization and statutory member of the National Security Council, to give an intimate picture of President Eisenhower as a man "who has faith in his fellow human beings, and faith in God."

The Security Council meets every Thursday morning with the President presiding, and Flemming by invitation sits in the Friday morning cabinet meetings.

Eisenhower Understands

"In my judgment, the President is exceptionally well qualified by training and experience to discharge the duties of his office," Flemming said. "I am amazed by his knowledge and understanding of problems all over the world," he added.

President Eisenhower's ability to preside at meetings and draw out the opinions of others "is changing the character of the cabinet," Flemming said. For the first time in history, an agenda is drawn up for cabinet meetings and a "free and full discussion" is held on major problems, he revealed.

The President "knows how to develop a real spirit of team play," he said.

Flemming also noted that the Friday morning cabinet meetings are opened with a few moments of silent prayer, which the President has termed "the finest kind of preparation for consultation with my associates."

The connecting dining rooms were filled to capacity and tables were set up in the sunporch of the hotel for the overflow crowd that attended the banquet. Tickets had been sold out two weeks ago and there had been a waiting list of persons wanting to buy any cancellations.

One of Largest Assemblages

Raymond R. Gross, manager, said that Monday night's banquet was among the largest ever served in the Governor Clinton Hotel, ranking with those drawn by John Foster Dulles and James Farley, previous record attendances.

N. Jansen Fowler, president of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce, presided at the meeting. In his opening remarks, Fowler termed 1953 "a year of progress and a year of accomplishment" for Kingston and its chamber. Adrian Kaplan was 1953 president of the Chamber.

Noting that a delegation was present from International Business Machines Corporation, which on Nov. 9 announced it would build a new plant in the town of Ulster, Fowler said, "we could not have found a more desirable industry if we had gone the world over."

Honors Parents

In introducing the guests, Fowler said "top billing" went to the parents of the speaker, Judge and Mrs. Harry H. Flemming. "A great man certainly reflects the attributes and characteristics of his parents," Fowler said.

Others introduced were Richard O. Gruver, chairman of the banquet committee and classmate of Flemming's at Kingston High School; Albert Kurdt, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce; Frederick H. Stang, mayor of Kingston; Robert Phinney, chairman of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors; James F. Loughran, chairman of the New York State Bridge Authority; Col. Allan L. Hanstein, Ulster county Civil Defense director; Robert A. MacKinnon, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce; Clarence H. Buddenhagen, vice president of the senior chamber, and Deweese W. DeWitt, treasurer.

Past President Adrian Kaplan welcomed those present and noted that their presence "indicates continued interest and confidence in the chamber."

Dr. William C. Cain, pastor of the Rondout Presbyterian-Wurts Street Baptist Church, gave the invocation. Howard C. St. John was the song leader.

Gruver Introduces IBM Group

Banquet Chairman Gruver introduced the delegation from IBM noting that the majority of that firm's principal executives are from small communities. Paying tribute to the firm's philosophy of community and employe relations, Gruver termed the delegation "a group of small town men who have gone by the friendly route to the big time."

Guests from IBM Poughkeepsie Plant 2 with their wives were John J. Black, controller; Joseph F. Degen, plant superintendent; Robert E. Estes, assistant superintendent; Joseph R. Koury, assistant to the vice president; W. W. LaBarre, production manager; Kenneth L. Snover, assistant general manager; Paul T. Vanness, personnel manager.

Gruver, who is city editor of The Freeman, graduated with Flemming from Kingston High School in 1922, played center on the high school football team while Flemming was assistant manager of the team, and was a member of the debating squad of which Flemming was leader.

Later, Chamber President Fowler recalled that the debating team captained by Flemming captured for Kingston High School the interscholastic debating cup offered by Rutgers University. Fowler remarked that great credit was also due the team's faculty advisor, Miss Mary Noone.

Was on Freeman Staff

Fowler introduced Dr. Flemming, reviewing his career from graduation, when he joined the Freeman editorial staff for a year, went to Ohio Wesleyan University and as a debating prize won a trip to England in 1927. Fowler traced Flemming's rise in journalism, educational and governmental fields to the presidency of Ohio Wesleyan University and to top governmental posts, now serving on the National Security Council, often termed the President's "Super-Cabinet."

Proud of Kingston

Flemming, responding, said he appreciated the opportunity of coming back to Kingston, and complimented the Chamber of Commerce officers and banquet committee for an "excellent management job" in planning the annual event.

"I am always proud of the fact that I grew up in Kingston," Dr. Flemming said. "We've had a great past, but there isn't any question at all about the fact we have a great future ahead of us."

About IBM, Flemming said, "I don't know how the government would operate these days without the equipment provided by IBM."

Flemming Is Greeted at Stewart Air Force Base

Two high officials turned out at Stewart Air Force Base Monday afternoon to greet U. S. Defense Director Arthur S. Flemming when he flew in from Bolling Field, Washington, in a Military Air Transport plane to keep his speaking engagement at the annual Kingston Chamber of Commerce banquet Monday night. Also on hand to snap this picture was Freeman Photographer Milton H. Wagenfohr. In the above photo left to right are N. Jansen Fowler, chamber president and R. O. Gruver, banquet chairman, who went to meet Dr. Flemming, center. At Dr. Flemming's left are Col. Robert L. Brocklehurst, base commander, and a director of the Newburgh Chamber of Commerce; and Brig. General George F. Smith, vice commander, Eastern Air Defense Force. Dr. Flemming was accorded full "VIP" honors by other officers and U. S. Air Force photographers. (Freeman photo)

Two IBM Officials With Flemming

Joseph R. Koury, assistant to the vice president, IBM Plant 2, Poughkeepsie; U. S. Defense Director Arthur S. Flemming; Kenneth L. Snover, assistant general manager of the IBM plant at Poughkeepsie chatted prior to Monday's annual banquet at the Governor Clinton Hotel, this city. In his talk Dr. Flemming said he did not know how the government could operate without IBM products. He also paid tribute to the corporation as "a wonderful organization." (Freeman photo)

file a sworn statement relevant to his testimony, for incorporation in the record.

3. Permit a witness or any person who believes he has been smeared at a public hearing the right to testify or file a statement in rebuttal.

4. Permit a witness to obtain a copy of his testimony given at a public hearing and his testimony at a private hearing where the testimony becomes relevant in a criminal proceeding or subsequent hearing—provided supplying of such a copy will not prejudice public safety or security.

The main bill contains a section that, in effect, would prohibit the disclosure of evidence or testimony developed at a closed-door investigation in a manner that would result in a distorted picture of the proceeding.

That section states that:

"Except in the course of a subsequent public hearing which is open to the public, no testimony or other evidence adduced at a private hearing or preliminary conference or interview" conducted before a single-member or multi-member investigating agency "shall be disseminated or made available to the public" by the body without the approval of the head, in the case of a single-member agency, or without the majority in the case of a multi-member group. Violation would constitute a misdemeanor.

Would Not Apply

The prohibition of one-man investigations would not apply, of course, to single-member state probing bodies, such as a one-man Moreland Act Commission or the state commissioner of investigation.

The bills would take effect May 1.

Charles C. Lockwood, chairman of the 12-member ethics committee, said of the proposals:

"New York state long has been in the forefront of governmental progress. It is entirely fitting, therefore, that the first general code of fair procedure for investigative agencies should be put into effect in the Empire State.

"The legislation unanimously recommended by our committee assures that the rights of the individuals will be protected without impeding the process of government in any way."

The ethics committee was created at the request of Dewey.

Fair Weather Prevails

(By The Associated Press)

There were a few wet spots in the midwest and west but fair weather prevailed in most other sections of the country today. Light snow fell across the northern Great Lakes region. There was rain in the northern and central Rockies and showers in the Dakotas. Rain continued over a wide area in the Pacific coast states. Coldest weather early today was in northern New England, with a low of 5 above zero at Caribou, Maine. Temperatures generally were around or above seasonal levels in most other areas.

Marries Second Time

Oxnard, Calif., March 9 (AP)—Just a day after his divorce from his first wife became final Donald Douglas, 61, president of Douglas Aircraft Co., married a second time. Douglas and Mrs. Marguerite C. Tucker, 52, were married Saturday at the Oxnard home of County Supervisor Edwin L. Carty. The ceremony was performed by Superior Judge Clarence E. Pecht. The plane maker's first wife, Charlotte, named Mrs. Tucker as a corespondent in her divorce suit and accused her husband of infidelity.

78 Planes Destroyed

Tokyo, March (AP)—The Communist Peiping radio said tonight that Red Guerrilla forces in Indochina destroyed 78 French aircraft in two recent raids on airfields near Hanoi and Haiphong. The Communist Broadcast heard in Tokyo quoted a Vietnam news agency which it did not identify. The broadcast said 18 Dakota cargo planes were destroyed Thursday near Hanoi.
